NOTHING LIKE A GOOD BOOK

Books have been around for some time, and according to history, have left their marks where civilizations have completely altered. Some books shown in the background may not have the same effect today, but they still create an interest in learning. Young Canada Book Week, which ends Saturday, encourages Canadian youngsters to read good books, says children's librarian Mrs. Bonney Murdoch. Helping celebrate the event in Kelowna are Sandra Ryder, nine,

Britain Gives Grim Warning Of Soviet Threat To NATO

LONDON (CP) — Lord Carrington, Britain's defence secretary, says the Soviet naval build-up in the Mediterranean and Indian Ocean is designed to threaten NATO's right flank. Britain and all Commonwealth countries bordering the Indian Ocean who disregard the Soviet infiltration do so "at our peril," he declared Wednesday. Carrington made the comment before Commonwealth correspondents amid reports that Britain and the United States are discussing the possibility of building a big naval base in the Indian Ocean to challenge Soviet dominance in that region.

He said these reports are speculative but he intends to fly to Washington Sunday for talks with the United States government. Published reports suggest the joint naval base will be on Diego Garcia, a British island lying about 1,000 miles south of Ceylon.

CITIED AS REASON Britain's repeated reference to the expanded Soviet presence is being aired in a number of international forums, as the basic reason why Britain should sell naval arms to South Africa—a proposal which has angered a number of Commonwealth countries.

Carrington said that Commonwealth countries must be made aware that the Soviet presence "is not there for your health."

He said he could not agree with the argument that a Western presence to offset the Soviet presence might lead to the possibility of conflict. All experience showed that if the West does not respond, the Russians probe further.

When critics suggest that the Soviet naval expansion does not matter, they should ask themselves why the Russians have expanded and what are they trying to do, Carrington said.

HE TALLIED IT ON WRONG FOOT

BORDEN, P.E.I. (CP) — Alfred Reeves, 77, of Kensington, P.E.I., counted Donald Roy's feet and figured the tab should be 80 cents.

But the CNR insisted that it should be $3—and Alfred had to pay it.

Mr. Reeves felt today's bright sunshine was a good opportunity to go to the mainland by horse-and-buggy, and he harnessed faithful Donald Roy for the trip to the CNR ferry terminal here.

Twenty cents a foot, said the ticket man on the ferry Abegweit.

That, figured Mr. Reeves, meant 20 cents for each of Donald Roy's four feet.

But the ticket man, with full backing from CN officials in regional headquarters at Moncton, N.B., explained that it was on a length basis and Donald Roy counted in the measuring.

A CNR spokesman said it was the first time in 15 years that a horse-and-buggy used the ferries, which carry thousands of cars and trucks between here and Cape Tormentine, N.B.

Nixon Dealt Output Blow

WASHINGTON (AP) — The worst monthly drop in industrial production in more than a decade has dimmed Nixon administration hopes that the U.S. economy is snapping back and moving toward recovery.

Seasonally-adjusted figures released Tuesday show the industrial production index in October fell 2.3 per cent, the most since August, 1959, when there was a nationwide steel strike. The index is down 6.3 per cent from October, 1969.

Half of October's percentage decline was blamed on the auto workers' strike against General Motors and its depressing effect on industrial output. Tentative agreement has since been reached but GM is still struggling to resume production.

But, strike or no strike, the drop in the important economic indicator still would have been large, the Federal Reserve Board said.

It was the third straight monthly decline in the index, a disappointment to administration officials who have been trying to carry out a strategy of gradual economic recovery.

Red China Seeks Ouster Of Nationalists From UN

HONG KONG (Reuters) — Communist China today called for the expulsion of Nationalist China from the United Nations as the UN General Assembly approached a crucial vote in New York on Peking's admission.

The vote is reported to be imminent, with the United States fighting a rearguard action to keep Peking from gaining a majority of votes for admission.

Commenting for the first time on the current UN debate, the New China news agency said Albania, Algeria and many other countries are demanding "the restoration to China of its legitimate seat in the United Nations."

It said: "In face of this situation, United States imperialism has mustered a handful of its lackeys to step up the scheme of 'two Chinas' or 'one China, one Formosa'."

"This will never be tolerated by the Chinese people."

Observers here said the Peking statement strengthened the view that China is keenly interested in joining the UN. The

Areas With A Jobless Problem Receive Booster From Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — Areas expected to be hit hard this winter by unemployment got a $60 million shot in the arm Tuesday when the government tabled its supplementary spending estimates in the Commons.

Treasury Board President C. M. Drury's estimates added $475,120,756 to the 1970-71 budget, which will bring expected government spending to $14,209,415,192 by March 31.

The estimates include the $60 million that Finance Minister Edgar Benson promised in the throne speech debate last month to fight expected increases in jobless Canadians.

Mr. Drury said outside the Commons that $18.9 million will be used for manpower retraining programs, $25 million for capital projects where unemployment is high and the rest for maintenance tasks across the country.

WILL PROVIDE WORK

Although no estimates were given on how many jobs would be created, departments and agencies involved in the capital projects and maintenance tasks estimated 12,000 man hours of work would be available.

Other monies involved in the estimates include $1,232,000 for projects at defence bases across the country, which lifts, at least temporarily, the three-year freeze on the defence department budget.

Transfers to the provinces for tax revenue and equalization grants amount to about $150 million and payments under the vocational schools grants account for $86.4 million.

Police Missed Three Suspects

'Pushers' Hunted Across Province

VANCOUVER (CP) — An offensive against drug traffickers is under way in British Columbia in a crackdown expected to haul in 100 people or more.

Arrests were reported Tuesday of 75 persons, with warrants out for another 38.

The arrests and warrants followed three months of undercover work and four separate investigations based in Chilliwack, North Vancouver, Victoria and Surrey.

"We are after the traffickers," said RCMP Assistant Commissioner Gordon Cunningham in Victoria Tuesday.

"There were four investigations and the arrests were timed to start on the same day."

He said instructions for the investigations did not come from the attorney-general's office, but were the result of a steady gathering of evidence.

Asked whether the RCMP viewed the increasing soft drug problem with alarm, he said:

"Well, the problem has not been decreasing appreciably. We are after the traffickers."

The assistant commissioner said that when the roundup started, warrants were issued for 20 persons from North Vancouver RCMP headquarters, 13 from Surrey, 36 in the Victoria subdivision area and 40 in the Chilliwack subdivision area that includes some of the Okanagan.

He said another six arrested in Nelson last week were part of the general roundup.

Most of those charged range in age from 17 to 21.

Less than one quarter are juveniles and most of the charges involve trafficking in marijuana, hashish or LSD. There are a few charged with selling hard drugs and MDA, an hallucinogenic chemical similar to LSD.

In Victoria, 14 persons were remanded to next Monday and Tuesday on 19 charges of trafficking in various drugs. They were granted bail ranging from $1,500 to $6,000.

Lack Of Training Blamed In "Entirely New Situation"

QUEBEC (CP) — Justice Minister Jerome Choquette said Tuesday that police who arrested a suspect in the kidnapping and slaying of former labor minister Pierre Laporte were unaware three other suspects were hiding in a secret compartment in the same apartment where the arrest was made.

Mr. Choquette told the Quebec national assembly the three men were apparently hiding in a walk-in clothes closet in the west-end Montreal apartment when Bernard Lortie was arrested Nov. 6.

The minister was replying to a question from Opposition Leader Jean-Jacques Bertrand. Lortie, a 19-year-old student, was found hiding in another closet.

Mr. Choquette said brothers Paul and Jacques Rose and Francis Simard were apparently in the secret closet and escaped when, at 6:30 p.m. the following day, police on guard in the apartment left temporarily.

He said that before leaving, the officers made sure both the front and back doors were locked but when they returned, they found the back door open. Another search led to the finding of the secret compartment.

Referring to the oversight in not finding the hiding place in the first search, Mr. Choquette said he had every reason to believe "that this place was particularly well hidden. There was no reason to believe people could hide in that secret compartment."

"The justice minister said that although police had not been entirely successful in their investigations of the kidnappings so far, this was no time to criticize them."

He described as "inopportune" a statement by Prime Minister Trudeau in the Commons Nov. 10 in which Mr. Trudeau said the failure of police investigations was part of the reason for the invocation of the War Measures Act. Mr. Choquette said the remark could have affected police morale.

Mr. Trudeau later explained that police were dealing with an entirely new situation. They had not been trained to combat this type of problem.

Lunar Buggy Sends TV Pictures Home

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Russia's moon buggy has started sending good quality television pictures of the lunar surface back to earth, the Soviet-Tass news agency said today.

Traces left by Lunokhod I on the moon's surface could be clearly seen in the pictures, Tass said.

The eight-wheel lunar buggy, the first robot vehicle on the moon, parked overnight on the lunar surface after emerging from its mothership Tuesday.

Lunokhod's chief designer today explained in Red Star, the armed forces newspaper, how the vehicle was controlled from earth.

He said the chassis incorporated a number of automatic devices to increase safety of movement, to help control movement, and to carry out scientific experiments to measure the mechanical properties of lunar soil.

In order to prevent the vehicle from overturning while moving uphill or downhill or with a heavy load, special sensors were installed in the chassis system to stop the robot if necessary.

Kidnappers Still Hunted

Meanwhile in Montreal, police said there were no developments to report in the investigation of the kidnapping Oct. 5 of British diplomat James Cross, and the kidnapping of Mr. Laporte Oct. 10 and his subsequent murder. The terrorist Front de Liberation du Quebec has claimed responsibility for both kidnappings.

A newspaper report in Montreal said a high-level police investigation is under way to determine how a tape recording of two incarcerated persons was smuggled out of provincial police headquarters where they are being detained.

The three-minute recording by lawyer Robert Lemieux and labor leader Michel Chartrand, both charged with seditious conspiracy and being members of the outlawed FLQ, was played Tuesday at a news conference.

The Gazette quotes an unidentified QPP spokesman as saying the force's police director, Maurice St. Pierre, is aware of the tape recording and "something is going to be done about it."

Police experts were still checking late Tuesday night the authenticity of a note purportedly from the FLQ which threatens further terrorist action unless 24 so-called political prisoners are released within four days. The note was received by a French-language radio station Monday.

World Rallies Round To Aid Storm Victims

DACCA (CP) — Swiss and German aircraft ferried in tons of relief supplies today and President Nixon allocated $10 million to the international rehabilitation effort for survivors of the cyclone and tidal waves that inundated a large area of East Pakistan six days ago.

China will donate $1.2 million worth of aid, the New China news agency reported. It said one-third of the donation would be in cash while the rest would be in relief supplies.

The number of dead remained incalculable. The government confirmed 55,000, but unofficial estimates were from 300,000 to 650,000; the Pakistani relief commissioner, A. M. Anisuzzaman, said he could neither challenge nor confirm them.

Criticism mounted in Dacca that not enough is being done to help save hundreds of thousands of survivors.

The pro-government newspaper Morning News said: "This is an unparalleled national disaster and should be treated as such. . . . At least let us not fail the survivors."

The Pakistan Observer, an independent daily owned by former foreign minister Hamidul Kar Chowdhury, claimed "relief goods arriving from foreign countries remain dumped in Dacca as no carrier is available to airdrop them. . . . Therefore, relief has not reached thousands of survivors in the offshore islands even six days after the disaster."

Dozens of small islands in the Bay of Bengal were still untouched by relief workers. Survivors told reporters their drinking water came from pools befouled by bodies of human beings and cattle, and their only food was rotting rice kernels they burned before eating to kill the stench.

Officials discounted reports of widespread cholera in the stricken area.

"The incidence of cholera is insignificant compared to other problems of relief here," said Dr. Wiley Mosley, chief of epidemiology of the cholera laboratory run by Pakistan and the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

A Boeing 707 from West Ger-

THE NATIONAL Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's weather satellite saw the hurricane like this. The photo was released in Washington today. The cross marks

Tight Money Period 'Now Over'

Finance Minister Edgar Benson said Tuesday that the period of tight money has ended in Canada. He told the Burnaby Chamber of Commerce: "I have been informed by the governor of the Bank of Canada that the banking system is liquid enough now to accommodate all justifiable loans that may be brought forth to the banking system."

Health Minister Claude Castonguay of Quebec said Tuesday that economic development alone will not cure the "sick society" that breeds violence and terrorism. Mr. Castonguay told the Quebec national assembly during an emergency debate on the crisis in Quebec that society needs "a profound re-adaptation, new values and new directions" to solve pressing social problems.

The British government has acknowledged in the Commons that it has started formal consultations with Canada and other suppliers on the British proposal to impose import duties on certain food items. "One of our objects is to minimize the disturbance to trade," Geoffrey Rippon, Britain's chief European Common Market negotiator, said in the Commons Tuesday. "We intend to achieve this object through the consultations and negotiations which we are engaged in."

School Plans For Approval

VICTORIA (CP) — Education Minister Donald Brothers said Tuesday the provincial government is being asked to approve referendums totalling $25.1 million in 27 British Columbia school districts next month for the construction of 472 emergency classrooms.

Mr. Brothers said the referendum requests will be placed before the cabinet for approval by order-in-council.

Authorization is being sought under the government's emergency building program to meet what the education department considers are essential space requirements for the 1971-72 school year.

CLAUDE CASTONGUAY... more needed

Quebecers are being brainwashed in a situation somewhat comparable to Nazi Germany's in 1937, Senator Paul Desruisseaux (L-Quebec) told the Senate Tuesday. Senator Desruisseaux said unemployment is partly responsible for spreading unrest and increased demands for separation in Quebec. But education was also an important factor in the province's problems.

An unusual kidney disease was blamed Tuesday by a marine biologist for the death of more than 100 California sea lions along the Pacific Coast. Biologist Richard C. Hubbard in San Francisco said leptospirosis, caused by a micro-organism attacking kidney functions, has never before been diagnosed in marine mammals. He said the amount of DDT found in carcasses varied widely but was no factor in the disease.

A tentative agreement was reached Tuesday in Prince George between the International Woodworkers of America and the Northern Interior Lumbermen's Association, IWA regional president Jack Moore said, however, he will not release details of the agreement until union members vote on the settlement later this week.

The sale of Ryerson Press by the United Church is part of the larger issue of whether Canadians will continue to publish any books at all, Senator Keith Davey (L-Ontario) told the Senate Tuesday. Speaking in debate on a motion that the Senate banking committee study the question of Ryerson's sale to McGraw-Hill, a U.S.-controlled firm, Senator Davey said the "moment of truth" in book publishing in Canada is at hand. Only two major Canadian book publishing companies still exist and each was in financial trouble.

Pauline Nagel, 17, of Dawson Creek, will represent British Columbia at the international 4-H club conference in Chicago Nov. 29 to Dec. 3. Miss Nagel is a pre-medical student at the University of Edmonton.

Albion MLA Dr. Howard McDiarmid said two days of Social Credit caucus meetings wound up in Victoria Tuesday, with a consensus among members that discussions on health, welfare and labor had been "very effective."

Statements by former secretary of state Judy LaMarsh about an Ottawa radio reporter in her book Memoirs of a Bird in a Gilded Cage, were her own opinions and nothing more, the British Columbia Court of Appeals was told Tuesday in Vancouver. As such, they cannot be the basis for a libelous, lawyer D. K. Ladlaw contended in appealing for Miss LaMarsh the $2,500 libel damage award by Chief Justice J. O. Wilson of the B.C. Supreme Court against her and her publishers to Thomas Edward Murphy Feb. 9.

Verbal Battle Rages On FBI

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover and former attorney-general Ramsey Clark, apparently uneasy bedfellows in law enforcement for two years, have publicly divorced themselves with verbal blasts at each other.

Clark, who was Hoover's boss from 1967 to 1969, fired the first shot. The 76-year-old director's "self-centred concern" for his own reputation, he said, led to the FBI's sacrifice of "effective crime control."

Hoover, in turn, told a Washington Post reporter that Clark was "a jellyfish," the worst attorney-general in the 45 years Hoover has headed the federal law enforcement agency.

While a 1964 confrontation over standards for FBI agents resulted in Hoover's refusal to speak to the late Robert F. Kennedy in the last six months of his tenure as attorney-general, the director told the Washington Post in an interview: "If ever there was a worse attorney-general, it was Ramsey Clark. You never knew which way he was going to flop on an issue."

'Hitler Received Powers' Like Public Order Bill

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition parties delivered a desk-thumping Commons denunciation Tuesday of what spokesmen described as the government's "intransigent resistance to suggested changes in the proposed public order bill."

Eldon Woolliams (PC—Calgary North) said that without some of these changes, the Public Order (Temporary Measures) Act, 1970, would give the government "the same kind of powers as were handed to Adolf Hitler."

Debate on the public order bill is not expected to resume until next Monday. Today and Thursday the House is to debate a Conservative motion scoring government economic policies. On Friday it is to adjourn for the funeral of Bernard Pilon, the government whip and MP for Chambly who died Tuesday.

The primary aim of Mr. Woolliams, a Calgary lawyer, and that of David Lewis (NDP—York South) was to force the government to set up a review board to protect civil rights under the act, which replaces regulations under the War Measures Act and this now had been done.

Justice Minister John Turner said the government opposes the creation of a review board because this was the sole responsibility of the Quebec attorney-general.

The provinces had the constitutional right to administer laws whether they were federal or provincial.

Gordon Fairweather (PC—Fundy-Royal), a former New Brunswick attorney-general, said he was greatly disturbed by the government's "intransigent resistance" on the review-board issue. He said outside the House he will vote against the bill.

Earlier Tuesday the government tabled supplementary spending estimates which add $475,120,756 to its 1970-71 budget. The new estimates bring next March 31 to $14,209,415,182 by March 31.

The main estimates—government spending program—were set at $13,752,294,436 earlier this year.

The new estimates include a $60 million allocation for the creation of jobs in areas hard hit by winter unemployment.

In the Senate, Senator Paul Desruisseaux (L-Quebec) said many people from his province were being brainwashed, mainly by "extremist educators from other countries."

He said the aim in most schools seems to be directed at blaming English-Canadians for all social ills in Quebec.

In the Commons, Pierre De Bane (L-Matane), who has been one of the strongest critics of the public order bill, moved three amendments Tuesday. All were defeated.

His first two motions were aimed at forcing police to acquire warrants wherever possible before making arrests and making it an offence for an employer to fire an employee arrested under the bill but not charged.

His third amendment called for an explicit guarantee that goods seized by police in their that the contacts between the Soviet government and France, Britain and West Germany have definitely lowered the political temperature in Europe.

The signature of the Soviet-West German treaty will probably rank as one of the major Soviet diplomatic moves of 1970.

Brandt declared that the treaty marked the birth of an element of detente in Europe. Britain and Russia, in a joint statement issued after Gromyko's talks with Heath and Sir Alex, said the pact constituted a "significant contribution to the relaxation of tension in Europe."

They expressed the hope that before long, a similar assessment could be made of the outcome of talks on the Berlin problem between the ambassadors of the big powers—Britain, France and U.S. and the Soviet Union.

Brezhnev himself, in a speech in Soviet Kazakhstan last August, said the Moscow-Bonn treaty renouncing the use of force was a result of efforts by the Soviet Union and its allies aimed at "liquidating the remnants of the Second World War."

This was the first formal top-level contact between a top Soviet official and Britain's new Conservative government.

The Soviet foreign minister invited both Prime Minister Edward Heath and Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home to make official visits to the Soviet Union.

Both accepted the invitation, but no date was set for the Moscow visit. The last visit by a British prime minister to the Soviet Union was by Harold Wilson in 1968. Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin went to Britain in February, 1967.

Since then, the Soviet-led Warsaw pact invasion of Czechoslovakia in the summer of 1968 cast a cloud over Anglo-Soviet relations and further widened the political gap between the Kremlin and the United States.

Investigations would be returned to their owners.

Mr. Lewis said police forces now investigating terrorism in Quebec have been guilty of "scandalous, unforgivable action" in arresting 450 people but having evidence that warranted charges against only 43 of them.

David MacDonald (PC—Egmont), the only MP to vote against the bill at second reading, said the police, by making so many arrests in their investigation, have shown themselves "woefully short of good judgment."

Mr. Lewis moved an amendment, also defeated, that would have required police to have "probable and reasonable grounds" to suspect a person is a member of an unlawful organization before any arrests were made.

In its present form, the act would permit police to arrest anyone they have reason to suspect may belong to an outlawed group such as the Front de Liberation du Quebec.

Mr. MacDonald said the bill leaves the decision to arrest almost exclusively to the whims of individual police officers.

"If he gets up in the morning after a poor night, tired and irritable, and he runs into somebody he does not like... he can place that person under arrest... the reasons may be good, bad or indifferent."

FLEXIBLE

Yule Shopping Hours Ready?

As in the past, most city business firms will maintain a flexible schedule of Christmas week hours, depending on what last-minute shopping traffic warrants.

All major firms on Bernard Avenue queried will remain open two or three nights during the period from Dec. 21 to 23 until 9 p.m. in addition to their normal working hours, including drug stores offering a wide range of merchandise. All businesses, including banks, will be closed Christmas and Boxing days, reverting back to their normal business hours the week immediately following. Although Christmas Eve is not considered by merchants a normal business day, a few will remain open to 5:30 p.m.

Banks will remain open Dec. 24 until 3 p.m., resuming normal working hours Dec. 29 and 30 and closing Dec. 31 at 3 p.m. All branches will be closed Jan. 1 and 2, resuming normal banking hours Jan. 4.

Christmas Day is a Friday and Boxing Day the Saturday. Major department stores downtown and at the Capri Shopping Centre will remain open to 9 p.m. Dec. 21 to 23, and until 5:30 p.m. Dec. 19 and 24. One major outlet will be open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Dec. 14 to 18, while another will be open Dec. 17 to 19 from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Since passing of a bylaw by city council in 1967, which now allows any business firm to operate 24 hours a day six days a week, the general attitude by most stores is a "follow the trend" policy. At least one merchant expressed a desire for uniform business hours, although admitting the possibility would remain remote as long as large chain stores adhered to a blanket store hour policy.

With the exception of closure on Christmas and New Year's Eve, major food outlets will maintain their present business hours of 8:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. exclusive of Saturdays when stores will close at 6:30 p.m. Other major outlets will adhere to the same Christmas schedule with the exception of Christmas and New Year's Eve closure at 6 p.m.

City hall will be open for business as usual 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays during the Yuletide season, with the exception of New Year's day. Government offices will observe no change in their regular business hours of 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., and will be closed both Christmas and New Year's days.

Business Christmas hours for local government liquor stores will be announced later.

SEEN and HEARD

There is a slight problem with having two dogs, especially one small and one large, a Rutland resident has discovered. The small pet is a poodle, which likes to eat some of its liver in the morning, and leave the rest until later in the day. But, the playful and always hungry five-month-old German shepherd has developed a habit of eating its own, then the left-over poodle food, and anything else it can get hold of.

The recent Kelowna Kinsmen Club staff proved a beautiful event for Kelowna. Dr. H. N. Poyer, who shared the top prize draw with Jerry Saklosky of Vernon. Success of the stag nights in recent years allowed the Kinsmen to kick off the indoor swimming pool campaign, as well as helping other charitable club projects.

Local merchants have taken the calendar literally (31 shopping days to Christmas), with early yuletide decorations and other Chris Kringle reminders. The not so subtle Christmas programming prompted one woman shopper Tuesday to exclaim: "Heavens, I haven't finished last year's list yet."

The popular and informative page four feature It Happened In Canada, recently contained information on sonic booms. The explanation read: When an aircraft flies faster than sound, sound waves are built up in the air similar to waves caused by throwing a pebble into water. When these waves reach the ground a whip-like thunderclap is heard. In popular terms this is called a sonic boom. Thanks to a first-hand demonstration here in 1969 by the U.S. Navy Blue Angels such explanations are not required.

Some people are quick to seize an opportunity. A customer was checking out of a local supermarket Monday afternoon when the manager came along passing out cheques to cashiers. As the woman at his check-out accepted hers the customer stuck out his hand toward the manager and playfully asked "Is mine ready yet?"

This is the last day to apply for centennial medallions, says local committee chairman Ben Lee, who reports 32 applications processed and forwarded to Victoria to date. Medallions will not be sent until some time in late spring. Application forms are available at city hall in Kelowna and from the Courier news office in Rutland.

Members of the Ogoogo Squadron, Royal Canadian Air Cadets, were to have ventured to Spokane, Wash., in late November or early December for their annual weekend exchange visit with the American cadets. Instead, the squadron went south Nov. 7, says Capt. J. D. Bridges, commanding officer. The cadets left on a Friday afternoon and returned Sunday night. In June, the Americans came to Kelowna for a similar visit.

Campaign Beginning Goes Slowly

The annual local United Nations Children's Fund Christmas card campaign is "slightly behind last year," says chairman Mrs. Arthur Drake.

To date the drive, launched Oct. 20, has sold only $600 worth of Yuletide greeting cards and calendars toward this year's unofficial target of $2,000, the sum raised last year.

"We hope sales will pick up in volume so we can at least raise last year's total," Mrs. Drake added, reminding all that a single box of Christmas cards provides enough funds to vaccinate 75 deprived children of the world against tuberculosis, and purchase of nine boxes will supply enough sulphone tablets to treat 10 leprosy cases.

The heart of UNICEF's work is long-range involvement in the desperate difficulties which face three-quarters of the world's children in malnutrition and insufficient medical, educational and welfare facilities.

City and district residents can bridge that humanitarian gap by buying UNICEF cards and calendars until Dec. 16 at the following locations: Jansen's Toggery, South Pandosy; Mosaic Books and Imports, 1449 St. Paul St.; Gordon's Super Valu, 561 Bernard Ave.; Bank of British Columbia, 313 Bernard Ave.; Belva's Dry Goods, Westbank; Rutland Shop Easy Store; and Flamingo Hair Stylists, Capri Shopping Centre.

SENIORS MEET

A public meeting directed toward elderly citizens was held today at the First United Church Hall at 1:15 p.m. The session was sponsored by Kelowna Volunteer Recreational Services, the provincial government community recreation branch and the Kelowna parks and recreation commission, and featured guest speakers Mrs. Catherine Horne, executive director, Silver Threads Activity Centre, Victoria, and C. Frank Way, president of the Federated Legislative Council Elderly Citizens Association of British Columbia, Vancouver.

ROUTINE DAY

The Kelowna Fire Brigade answered one false alarm and attended to a gasoline spill Monday. Firemen made a vain trip to Pandosy Street and Burne Avenue at 4:13 p.m. and later checked a gasoline spill on Bernard Avenue at 7:22 p.m. There were two pre-arranged ambulance calls.

KLO MEETING

The why and wherefore of design and construction economics involved in the new KLO Secondary School will be the object of a special meeting at Raymer Elementary School today at 8 p.m. The KLO Home and School Auxiliary will meet with school architect Peter Fulkner, engineer Lloyd Anderson, principal V. A. Blaskovich, and School District 23 (Kelowna) trustee T. H. Carter, school board building committee chairman, to discuss the matter.

Colder

Cloudy skies with afternoon snow flurries should dominate Thursday's weather over the Central Okanagan, as a cold Arctic front moves southward. Winds should be northerly 15 at times.

Tuesday's high was 55, the overnight low 32 and no precipitation was recorded.

Low tonight and high Thursday should be 32 and 37.

Gifts Assist Patients

November is mental health gift month, a chance to bring Yuletide cheer to hospital patients and shut-ins through donation of a Christmas gift.

The annual drive by the local branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association, headed by volunteer chairman Mrs. C. E. Feedham, hopes to brighten the lives of about 75 hospital and outpatient recipients with a presentation of donated gifts at a special Christmas party at the health centre, Queensway, Dec. 22. A gift container has been set aside at the health centre this month for Christmas contributions which can be brought unwrapped. Although all donations are welcome, gift suggestions for men include socks, gloves, shaving and toiletries, cards and chess sets, with similar articles for women recipients, including writing paper, cologne, perfume and other appropriate feminine gift items. Donations may be brought to the health centre any weekday between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Gifts will be wrapped for presentation by some 15 volunteers who comprise the local branch of the association. Left-over items are distributed to hospital patients throughout the year, and the local group also keeps a closet full of clothes at Kelowna General Hospital for needy recipients.

Since all items are intended as Christmas gifts, donations should be new, says Mrs. Feedham.

Growers Meeting

Organic food growers from Kamloops, the Cariboo, Powell River, Yakima, Wash., and most Okanagan points, will converge on Kelowna Friday for a meeting at the library board room at 8 p.m.

A growers' spokesman said the group's first meeting, Oct. 10, was successful, with 40 people attending.

Due to mounting interest in pollution prevention and ecology, more meetings will be held, the spokesman said.

In addition to organic growers, a number of food retailers will attend.

The Fraser Canyon is wet. Watch for rock on road.

The Yellowhead route reports light snow and slippery sections.

Regional Plan Eyed

The Kelowna Chamber of Commerce, aware of the increasing importance of regional government, is attempting to establish a regional concept within Kelowna area chambers. A letter outlining advantages and proposals in working together on a regional basis in such things as tourism and industry is being drafted by Kelowna officials for chambers in Winfield, Rutland, Westbank and Peachland.

Dispute Settled At Distillery

Project manager Frank Leeder at the Thrum Walker Distillery construction site at Winfield said today a partial work stoppage has "all been taken care of."

The dispute by tradesmen of Local 359 of the Boilermakers' Union arose Thursday over the award of some phases of work to other unions by Flanders Installations Ltd.

Some signs were posted and it was learned today the B.C. Supreme Court has issued an injunction restraining four members of the Boilermakers' Union from picketing.

Mr. Leeder said he was not aware whether the men in question were working "but everybody else is on the job."

DATA SOUGHT

Water Study Flows Along

Three representatives connected with the Canada-British Columbia Okanagan Basin water study will arrive in the Valley next week to compile socio-economic data on the region.

Donald S. Smith, head of the management and productivity centre of the British Columbia Research Council, is scheduled to arrive in the area Monday, accompanied by G. Sandve and

C. H. Thomas, one of five task groups involved in the four-year provincial-federal water investigation, formally signed Oct. 29, 1969.

Designed to develop a comprehensive framework for the development and management of water resources for the social betterment and economic growth of the Okanagan basin during the next 50 years, the study will encompass the research levels of water quantity, water quality, waste treatment, limnology and socio-economics. The $2,000,000 project is underwritten equally by Canada and the province.

Mr. Sandve and Mr. Thomas are involved in the socio-economic aspects of the study relative to predicting the growth of the Okanagan population trends, economic bases, water demands and usage, and who is using water resources. The investigation into this facet of the study was actually begun 18 months ago by the department of mines, energy and natural resources, one of several government branches on the Okanagan study committee, which appointed the five task groups.

Local involvement in the study is maintained through the technical committee of the Okanagan Basin Water Board, headed by chairman William Parichonchuk. The board comprises membership from the Regional District of Central Okanagan, and the Regional District of Okanagan - Similkameen, which each pay half of a $17,800 budget struck in January, 1969. Some of the board's objectives include land disposal of sewage effluent, pollution and water supply, setting standards of water conditions in the Valley and tabulation of pollution at all outfalls into Okanagan and Skaha Lakes.

The three water study representatives, who will probably begin at Penticton, will remain in the Valley until Nov. 28.

Health Officials Ponder Future

A wide spectrum agenda faces the fourth quarterly meeting of the South Okanagan Union Board of Health at the Summerland health unit today.

In addition to reports by South Okanagan Health Unit director Dr. D. A. Clarke; Dr. F. E. McNeil, director of the Okanagan Mental Health Centre; Donna Gunther, hygienist with the Okanagan Dental Centre; and Jean Bennett, district supervisor of the Penticton department of rehabilitation and social improvement, the meeting will also cover a progress report on air pollution from L. A. N. Poterton and Highways Minister Wesley Black.

Other business will include supporting resolutions on staffing from three municipalities, two school boards, two medical representatives and the Kelowna Society for Pollution and Environmental Control; grazing in the Naramata watershed; progress reports on pesticides, fungicides and herbicides; and outfall bacteriological counts from the pollution control branch.

Correspondence will encompass financing community rubella programs from the South Okanagan Health Unit, federal health grant for a community dental health centre from National Health and Welfare Minister John Munro. The meeting will also hear reports of the annual meeting of the Associated Boards of Health, held in Penticton Sept. 22.

Detailed accounts of the meeting will appear in the Courier beginning Thursday.

Retirement In Okanagan After 43 Years 'On Key'

G. T. Murphy, a Canadian National Telecommunications operator in Kelowna, retired recently, and was guest of honor in the Kelowna pensioners' hall.

He began his career with the Crown Corporation Oct. 24, 1928, as a telegraph operator, working in various Alberta and British Columbia communities, including Camrose, Alta., and Kamloops.

He retired as first trick (shift) operator in Kelowna.

Attending the ceremonies from outside Kelowna were W. G. Wright, assistant superintendent, Kamloops; Joseph Pehovich, chief dispatcher, Kamloops; T. B. Goodwin, general chairman, Transportation and Communications Union, Winnipeg; and H. Patterson, local TCU chairman, Kamloops.

A Kelowna resident for about 10 years, Mr. Murphy was presented with a purse and cheque from the organization, and friends presented him with a purse of money.

Mr. Wright presented him with a set of cuff links and a letter of appreciation of his work from G. H. Bloomfield, general manager, Canadian National Railway.

Mrs. Murphy was presented with a corsage and a gift from the staff.

The couple raised 12 children, all married.

They intend to reside in the Okanagan.

Mr. Murphy's hobbies include hunting, fishing and travelling.

Drugs, Drinking Cases In Court

Bail was set at $2,000, half to be posted in cash, for William Gordon of Kelowna, charged with two counts of trafficking in LSD.

Similar bail was set Tuesday for Theodore Van de Perre, who was also charged with drug trafficking. Both men reserved plea to the charges.

In other court news, Harvey Paquette of Winfield was fined $200 and suspended from driving for three months after pleading guilty to having care and control of a car while impaired. He was also fined $250 for refusing to take a breathalyzer test at the time of his apprehension.

Ralph F. Peters was fined $250 and suspended for six months, while Walter W. Leadley of Rutland was fined $250 and suspended for three months. Both pleaded guilty to impaired driving charges.

$500 DAMAGE

An estimated $500 in damages were caused Tuesday in collision between vehicles driven by Peter Van Buiten of Kelowna and Michiro Kawasaki of Summerland.

Kelowna Realtors Curious About Arizona Land Offer

A group of real estate promoters, working under the name Casa Grande West, are apparently meeting success in promoting a portion of the Arizona desert.

The sophisticated operation involves an invitation to private citizens to a dinner meeting, at which they are introduced to tracts of land situated at or near Casa Grande between Phoenix and Tucson.

A spokesman for the group, Bill Adams, denied there were any gimmicks involved. He said the lots being presented are serviced with sewer, water and power and maintained that, at about $2,300, they represent a good investment.

The focal point of the promotion is that any land is a good investment and property situated near a major U.S. thoroughfare in the famed climate of Arizona makes it that much better.

It is suggested to those interested, that investment in one of the lots would triple within five years.

The legality of the operation is, at this point, without question. The promoters themselves point out it is against the law to sell the U.S. land in B.C. and any final transaction would have to be made in Arizona after taking a look at the land.

Mr. Adams said those who do well, "are those who are willing to take risks," and said there are a lot of people in Kelowna who have shown they were willing to take a risk in Arizona land speculation.

Kelowna Chamber of Commerce manager William Stevenson said he had received calls questioning the operation, but said his office had no information on the group.

He suggested, however, interested people should bear in context exactly what is being promoted. In this case, it would mean a Kelowna resident owning a building lot in a foreign country.

"Just how valuable this might be to people, I can't say," said Mr. Stevenson.

Local real estate officials were attempting today to check credentials of the promoters and were investigating the propriety of the operation under the B.C. Real Estate Act.

Construction Labor Skills Upgraded By Special Course

For the next five weeks, construction laborers in the Kelowna area will have an opportunity to upgrade their skills for employment and promotion says Alvin Reimer, administrator of the Construction and General Laborers Training Trust Fund.

Two portable classrooms, which consist of a tent and trailer, have been located behind the British Columbia Vocational School (Kelowna), where laborers will study one of two courses available.

One course deals with concrete, and covers such topics as mixing, placing, transporting and curing. Mr. Reimer says.

The second, called trenching and pipe laying, deals with sewer, gas and utility duct lines.

In operation in Vancouver, Victoria and Nanaimo since November, 1967, the course is sponsored by management and labor.

To qualify, applicants must be employed and members of a construction union.

The British Columbia Construction Association, Amalgamated Construction Association and General Laborers' Union, locals 602, 1070 and 1093, and Tunnel and Rock Workers' Local Union 168 sponsor the course, which runs for 30 hours.

The Kelowna course is a pilot project in the interior. Previously, the mobile facilities were at Port Hardy and Jordan River, where first aid courses were offered.

This is the first time a construction course, such as is offered at the vocational schools in Vancouver and Nanaimo, and the schools in Victoria through out the year, is being offered in the interior.

Mr. Reimer added the group is considering giving the course in Kamloops after the Kelowna course is completed, but plans are not completed.

STEEL SPEARS SKY SCENE

First steel girders of the mammoth $35,000,000 Orchard Park shopping centre spear the sky in what will become one of the largest such complexes in the province. The 69-acre site at the southwest intersection of Highway 97 and Benvoulin Road, will accommodate a 150-room hotel, more than 40 stores (four of which will be major department and supermarket outlets), a multi-family residential area of garden apartments, condominiums, town houses and high-rise structures, plus an office-commercial section. Being developed by Marathon Realty, the development section of Canadian Pacific, the first construction phase will encompass the entire shopping area and take one year to complete. The second phase, covering the hotel, residential and commercial complex, is expected to be finished by 1974 and is being developed by Okanagan Holdings of Kelowna.

The Education Monster

What does a statistician do when the figures in front of him project disaster? What Dr. Miles Wisenthal did was to lay them before a national conference of education administrators in Banff recently. The dangers anticipated are so grave, however, that the warning should be sounded in all ears.

Dr. Wisenthal is director of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics' education division. He explained what education is costing Canada today and what it could cost by 1980, if nothing is changed.

Education is Canada's biggest industry. Twenty cents of every tax dollar raised from all sources goes into education. Per capita education costs have tripled since 1961.

A total of 8.5 per cent of the gross national product goes to education, more than the United States pays. Last year Canadian taxpayers spent $6.9 billion.

Elementary and secondary enrolment has risen 30 per cent since 1961, post-secondary enrolments by 250 per cent.

And what do these figures project for 1980, if there is no change? Education costs could rise to 15 per cent of the gross national product. Last year the yearly cost per university student was nearly $3,600; "by 1980 it is entirely possible it will rise to $9,000." The cost to the taxpayers of post-secondary education could be, at $8.3 billion, more than the cost of all education in 1969.

Such costs, said Dr. Wisenthal, would be beyond the capacity of the economy. They could be paid only at the expense of other programs like old-age pensions, health and welfare.

He did not see the problem as one of cost. An increasing number of students were enrolling in the social sciences. "What will be the market value of an undergraduate degree in sociology, anthropology, political science or psychology?" He could see a situation in which hundreds of thousands of resentful graduates would be unable to find jobs to match their skills.

He could see the taxpayers becoming so angry that they would reject the burden. He could see private entrepreneurs, attracted by all that money, offering commercial package deals to governments to take the problem off their hands. "It would not be unreasonable to assume that packaged educational deals will be offered provincial governments facing realities like re-election."

Dr. Wisenthal was not speaking in a vacuum. The date at which he saw the cost of education going beyond the capacity of the economy to support, and of taxpayers and governments to endure, was 1980, just 10 years from now. And he is not alone. The Economic Council of Canada sees health and education, if they go on as now, gobbling up the whole GNP by 2000, and it saw the fault as lying, not with the users of these services, but with the establishments that provide them.

Plainly, it can't happen. But if there is not to be a taxpayer and government revolt against education—one so savage that it would set the cause of education back decades—measures to tame the monster have to be taken now.

No wonder Ontario Education Minister Davis told school boards a few days ago: "I cannot emphasize too strongly the need for every possible economy in the light of the economic pressures which prevail at the present time," and moved to restrict their spending.

Bumpers Next To Useless

(Galt Reporter)

The motorist keen to cut his insurance cost need look no further than his bumper to see one major reason for his high premium.

Today's bumpers are almost as useless as a fifth wheel on a coach. They may take a slight touch, but they can't take a bump or absorb the jolt of even a low speed crash. They feed it back to the grille, headlights and body and thus pass on the damage back to the insurance companies and eventually every driver feels the blow in his pocket book as premiums rise with the rising expense of repairs.

Consider the results of test crashes conducted by the U.S. Insurance Institute for Highway Safety. They showed that damage to the largest-selling 1970 sedans averaged $217 at five miles an hour (barely above walking speed), $541 at 10 miles an hour (jogging speed) and $728 at 15 miles an hour. Such crashes occur by the tens of thousands every week all over North America, bringing glee and gain to repairers and rousing no concern among auto makers.

The bumper that can take a five-mile-an-hour crash back or front without damage to the car already exists and has been tested. The U.S. secretary of transportation has made the first move to get better bumpers on cars and at matching heights. One insurance company is urging motorists to write to him signifying their support. It is also advertising that when car makers change bumpers for better ones it will cut collision insurance rates by one-fifth.

Meanwhile most auto makers continue in their infantile preoccupation with facelifts and useless higher horsepower. Since none has publicly shown interest in pioneering with the better bumper, it will come, as have some other real, as distinct from merely cosmetic auto improvements, only as a result of government pressure backed by insurance burdened drivers.

Actions Of Modern Man

(Chatham News)

When Seneca wrote at the beginning of the Christian era: "What fools we mortals be," he little dreamed the saying would be used centuries later to qualify some actions of modern man.

For instance it would apply to the men who sanctioned Cassius Clay—or Muhammad Ali as he chooses to be named—exemption from military service on the grounds that as a Muslim minister of the church he objects to fighting... with weapons, that is, and for the safety of his country.

Photographs in the press clearly denote the killer instinct of the man and preclude any thought of gentleness one would expect to find in a minister of the church, be it the church that follows Mohammed, Christ, Buddha or any other.

That he is a good boxer, is beyond the shadow of a doubt and we agree with his supporters that there is no man, at present, sufficiently skilled and powerful to beat him.

What is objectionable is that the United States should be sufficiently permissive to allow Clay to get away with his specious arguments and avoid military service at the expense of his fellow men who lay down their lives while he makes huge sums battering other men into a bloody pulp.

Canadians 'To Pay Bill' If Ships Ruling Passed

By KEN KELLY
Canadian Press Science Writer
OTTAWA (CP) — International shippers said Tuesday Canadian consumers will pay if the federal government goes ahead with legislation to force shipowners to meet safety and anti-pollution requirements.

"Whatever burdens Canada thinks it right and necessary to impose on ships trading to Canada are burdens imposed ultimately on all Canadians," said the International Chamber of Shipping.

Sir Frederic Harmer, chamber chairman, forecast complete chaos if other nations follow Canada and go it alone in the regulation of shipping.

He urged Canada to make another effort to get international agreement on measures beyond those now in force or under negotiation by the Intergovernmental Maritime Consultative Organization.

He testified during study of the government's Canada Shipping Act amendments by the Commons pollution committee.

The bill results partly from Canada's failure last year to get international agreement on a tough approach to safety and anti-pollution measures among the shipping nations.

The Canadian decision to take action alone followed the sinking of the tanker Arrow off Nova Scotia last February and a pollution cleanup bill so far of more than $3,000,000.

Sir Frederic specifically rejected criticisms of international shippers made in the report of the Arrow investigators who blamed the grounding on a navigation equipment that failed to function and lack of navigational ability of the officers.

He said the report may suggest shipowners are totally irresponsible. But that was not so. They had long realized their safety and anti-pollution responsibilities.

Brash And Busty London Tabloid Teaches Lesson In Survival Art

By JOHN LEBLANC
LONDON (CP) — The brash and busty tabloid Sun newspaper is coming up to its first birthday as Fleet Street's latest survival miracle.

Not only has Australian Rupert Murdoch's titillating new paper not submerged under the relentless competition here, but The Sun now says it is in the black and taking circulation away from established rivals.

The Sun will be a year old Tuesday. This time last year many were predicting that by now it either would have folded or would be deeply milking multi-millionaire Murdoch's enormously profitable News of the World, a major sex-and-scandal weekly.

As it is, circulation has zipped up to a claimed daily 1,780,000—unaudited—against something like 650,000 when the tabloid was established to supplant the sinking standard-size Sun.

A combination of sex, sport and fairly solid news coverage for a tabloid—with lots of lack of coverage in female illustrations—has helped boost The Sun into a position of survival, a tough proposition in about the toughest street of newspaper survival in the world.

LOST MILLIONS
When Murdoch took over the original and ailing Sun—at the given away price of £50,000 ($125,000)—it was losing money at the rate of more than £1 million ($2.5 million) a year and had lost the International Publishing Corp. more than £12 million during its eight-year life.

The paper has had a peculiar career as a more or less legitimate descendant of the rickety Daily Herald, the defunct organ of the Labor party.

When the IPC beat out Canadian Roy Thomson—now Lord Thomson—for control of the huge Odhams Press in 1964, it inherited The Herald as part of the heterogeneous grab-bag.

The IPC promised to keep the Labor voice alive for five years; changed its name to The Sun; gave it one of the most brilliant staffs on Fleet Street, and then watched it gradually sink below the horizon for reasons no one has ever quite fathomed. It was one of the better "national" papers but couldn't catch the mass readership needed to keep it alive.

Nor has anyone quite figured out just why the new Sun is rising as fast as it has and stealing circulation from such tabloids as The Sketch and the mass-circulation Daily Mirror, whose sales have dropped to below 4.5 million from 5 million plus at the time Murdoch moved in on The Sun.

The Sun peels down its female models for miscellaneous sociological studies in the nude. But then so does The Mirror. The Sun has normally six sports pages, more than any of the tabloids, which may help. But then there's no accounting for British readers' tastes.

Sun editor Larry Lamb, 41, a former "splash" sub-editor on The Mirror with responsibility for its main headlines, just says: "We try harder."

EVERYBODY AFFECTED
The legislation hit every reputable operator as well as the "black sheep" of the shipping fraternity.

It tried to solve a problem that could be solved only by international agreement. While this was a slow way of making progress it was more in Canada's interest and, in the long run, would achieve more than unilateral action.

"This bill would be encouraging a counter-movement and one which would particularly hurt Canada as a great trading nation."

He said the bill should include ratification of international treaties on high seas pollution. These treaties provided safeguards against arbitrary government action to destroy crippled ships which might pose a pollution threat.

He disagreed with Liberal MP Tom Goode (Burnaby—Richmond-Delta) who said Canada has calculated the cost of unilateral action for tankers at a fraction of a cent a gallon of oil.

"You must be prepared for it to cost a lot more," Sir Frederic replied.

Duchess Adopts 2

LONDON (AP) — The Duchess of Argyll, a 56-year-old grandmother and the defendant in one of British society's most scandalous post-war divorce cases, says she has adopted two young boys.

They are Richard and Jamie Gardiner, nine and seven years old, sons of a retired sales manager and his 44-year-old school-teacher wife.

"The Gardiners are relatively poor," said the duchess, "and I can give the children many things which they could not afford."

She have signed away my rights as a mother," said Mrs. Gardiner, "but we are happy with the arrangements. The boys are also happy."

The duchess said the adoption was a "private arrangement between myself, the parents and my lawyers." The home office said that to be recognized by law, such private adoptions must be approved by a court.

The legal battle between the Duke and Duchess of Argyll lasted nearly 3½ years and was estimated to have cost £50,000 (then about $150,000), the most costly divorce action in Scottish history. Mr. Justice Lord Wheatley in 1963 found the duchess had committed adultery with at least four men, called her a "completely promiscuous woman whose sexual appetite could only be satisfied by a number of men," and granted the duke a divorce.

She was the duke's third wife. They had no children, but her daughter by her first marriage to broker-sportsman Charles Sweeney is the Duchess of Rutland, the mother of two sons and a daughter.

Japan Moving To Re-Armament

By PHILIP DEANE
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Japan, aspiring to greater independence from the U.S., has begun a series of moves which will de-emphasize the role of the Americans in the Western Pacific. In short, Japan is moving towards conventional re-armament. The first steps involve the surrender of important U.S. bases in Japan with a corresponding decrease in the size of the American forces there. The American B2s will stop operating from Okinawa. Then, three large bases near Tokyo will be turned over to the Japanese. More and more bases will be relinquished by the Americans until all or nearly all of U.S. bases in Japan are run by the Japanese.

The Japanese do not plan to close down these bases but to use them. Japanese warplanes will be in the hangars now occupied by U.S. aircraft. Japanese warships will replace U.S. vessels in the dockyards. The base facilities will continue having U.S. equipment and the current agreement aims at keeping the bases functioning in such a way that in the event of a major crisis, U.S. forces can return at a moment's notice.

There is a joint committee of American and Japanese officers handling matters that concern common military affairs. The Japanese want this committee to be replaced by regular meetings at ministerial level: the Americans have refused this request so far and seem intent on keeping an eye on how the Japanese re-arm.

The supervision may be necessary. The U.S. does not mind—in fact, it welcomes—an extensive Japanese conventional re-armament. But any suggestion of Japanese nuclear weapons makes the U.S. extremely nervous. The Japanese have very advanced nuclear technology. They could easily produce fissionable material for nuclear bombs. They could, then, produce rockets; they have, already, orbited their own satellite with a Japanese-made rocket.

To allay fears about their nuclear program which, they claim, is entirely peaceful, the Japanese have proposed the creation of a sort of Euratom of the Pacific, an international organization, (of which Canada would be a member) to participate in and supervise Japanese nuclear development.

The Americans have shied away from the idea, until now, because Japan made it clear that it expected other members of the new organization to give some of their technical secrets to Japan in exchange for Japanese discoveries in the nuclear field.

Washington, so far, seems highly sensitive to the deep alarm the Soviet Union feels about Japanese nuclear weapons. The Americans who remember Pearl Harbor are not devoid of anxiety either.

Trail For Hikers A Tourism Aid

HALIFAX (CP) — A hiking trail stretching from the northern tip of Cape Breton Island to the New Brunswick border has been proposed for Nova Scotia, and one of its backers says it could lengthen the province's tourist season by several months.

David Horne of Halifax, a trip coordinator with the Canadian Youth Hostels Association, said hiking is a recreation which has not actively been practised in North America to the extent it is in European countries, but it is growing in popularity.

"We are confronted with overcrowded, dirty and noisy cities. These problems can be solved, but the growing realization that they do exist has led many people to take a new, closer and, in some cases, a last look at a changing environment."

As a result of this environmental deterioration, he said, more and more people are leaving the main highways to experience nature's sights and sounds, many by leaving their cars and exploring on foot.

Horne said the best hiking in Nova Scotia is in the spring and fall of the year—seasons when the number of tourists is small.

"Thus, not only would a well-marked hiking trail begin a new major recreation but it would lengthen the tourist season by several months."

An Acadian Trail, he said, could join the Fundy Walking Trail, an existing marked trail starting near Moncton, N.B., and ending some 30 miles away near the entrance of New Brunswick's Fundy National Park.

The trail could then continue through the park to the New Brunswick-Maine border, where it could be extended to meet the Appalachian Trail.

He said the Appalachian Trail is perhaps the best-known trail in North America, extending some 2,000 miles from Maine to Georgia and attracting thousands of hikers every year. The Acadian Trail could also be extended from New Brunswick to form part of a proposed Trans-Canada Trail.

Horne said an Acadian Trail will not come about in a few years, but will require the efforts of many individuals and groups.

"With the example of the thousands who hike along the Appalachian Trail every year, this would be quite a significant contribution to tourism in Nova Scotia," he said.

"We have a rugged coastline providing spectacular views for the hiker."

BAND'S BOUQUET
Sir:
I would like the pleasure of handing our Kelowna City Band, a big bouquet, for the lovely music they played at the city Cenotaph in the park on Armistice morning.

It was a pleasure, to hear them playing O Canada, and the lovely old hymns, I need Three Every Hour and Abide With Me, and finishing with God Save the Queen. Also the appropriate music they played for us while the numerous wreaths were being laid around the Cenotaph. The two minutes silence, gives us old, and not so old veterans, time to ponder, (and in two minutes we sure travel far and wide). How fortunate we were to get home to our kith and kin, and our wonderful country Canada, after leaving a lot of our buddies out there. Some were buried in wet shellholes, others blown up and never found, some shot down from the skies, others drowned in the cold North Sea. And then we think how happy and joyful were the underfed French and Dutch folks to greet our lads after being liberated (and still are). We concluded that freedom and liberty and kindness, as opposed to oppression and cruelty, are still worth fighting and dying for. It was also nice to think that this simple service was being held in almost all the villages and hamlets, and big cities, throughout the free world.

Just think in that two minutes every veteran took off in a different direction, some and thoughts, some happy thoughts, but we mostly finished with thankful thoughts, that the war was over. God bless them I say, and Kelowna City Band, thanks once again; and thanks for the memories.

Recent Keremeos Wedding Of Interest To Kelowna

Our Lady of Lourdes Roman Catholic Church, Keremeos, was the setting for the double-ring ceremony which united in marriage Kathleen Mary Scheiber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Scheiber of Cawston to Raymond Harold Romanuk, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Romanuk of Kelowna.

Rev. Robert Reid officiated for the 4 p.m. ceremony on Nov. 7 with Mrs. Gordon L. Barker of Keremeos presiding at the organ.

Given in marriage by her father the bride chose a formal gown of beau d'eglance on empire lines with a high wedding band neckline trimmed with Venice lace applique. The long full Juliet sleeves were trimmed with deep cuffs of lace. Small clusters of satin roses formed her headdress which held a full length veil of illusion net with Venice lace train.

She carried a colonial bouquet of orange and yellow roses, with tiny rosebuds attached to the flowing white satin ribbons.

Her only adornment was a pair of gold cross earrings, a gift from the groom.

Matron-of-honor, Mrs. Wayne Strlehuik, a sister, from Burnaby and bridesmaid, Colleen Scheiber of Cawston wore formal gowns of moss green chiffon.

SWISS EMBROIDERY

The slightly gathered A-line gowns featured high ruffled necklines, long flowing sleeves with ruffled cuffs and Swiss embroidery in multi-colored autumn shades of orange and yellow entwined with moss green velvet ribbon at the neck, bodice and cuffs. They carried colonial bouquets of large yellow curly chrysanthemums entwined with orange tipped leaves.

The flower girl, Vicki-Lee Pawluk of Delta, B.C., wore a miniature formal gown, matching the bride attendants and she carried a white basket of yellow and white carnations.

Ring bearer was Gary Appel of Houston, B.C.

Joe Cundy of Oliver served as best man and groomsmen were Grant Light of Penticton, Ushers were Wayne Strlehuik, Burnaby and Don Huywan of Port Moody.

The best man, groomsmen, ushers and ring bearer were dressed in black suits, white shirts and black ties.

Safety Equipment Must For Trucks

VICTORIA (CP)—The provincial government has ordered operators of huge ore trucks being used in British Columbia mining ventures to install additional safety equipment.

The 1969 annual report of the department of mines and petroleum resources, released Monday, said some of the huge units aren't equipped with emergency steering or mechanical parking brakes.

One man was slightly injured at the Brenda mine site near Peachland because of brake failure on a heavy vehicle during the last year. There were two accidents attributed to this cause the report said.

Manufacturers of front-end loaders used in mining operations and other vehicles subject to steering failure have been ordered to find satisfactory methods of providing emergency steering.

Background Music For Wedding Provided By High School Choir

The Immaculate High School choir provided the background music throughout the marriage ceremony of Karen Arlene Gregoras, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Gregoras of Westbank and Donald Gregory Schneider, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schneider of Rutland. The choir sang a selection of wedding hymns during the recent wedding conducted in St. Pius X Roman Catholic church by Rev. Francis Godkeris.

A floor length gown of white nylon brocade was chosen by the bride. The princess lined dress featured long sleeves and a wedding ring collar, edged with rhinestone and pearl drop-lets.

Her headdress of white georgette rosebuds and nylon net held a veil of nylon netting trimmed with a lace border which fell into an eight foot train. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink garnets.

A gold locket with mother of pearl was borrowed from her mother and a blue garter completed the sentiment.

Maureen Gelowitz of Kamloops, formerly of Rutland, served as maid-of-honor and Mary Sullivan of Victoria, formerly of Kelowna, was bridesmaid.

Lack Of Calcium In Apples Reason For Storage Problem

Scientists at Summerland research station appear to have found the cause of a problem involving the prolonged storage of apples, particularly the Spartan variety.

The problem is serious for the Canadian apple industry because most apples must be stored to regulate the flow from producers to consumers.

What happens is that soft brown areas originate at the skin of the apple from cells breaking down.

It can range from a very small area in some fruits to the whole apple in extreme cases.

At Summerland scientists have found the problem is associated with a lack of calcium in the fruit.

They have tried spraying trees during the growing season to increase the calcium content of fruit.

In their first series of experiments, the breakdown problem in Spartan apples was reduced to a third.

In a second experiment, they grew Spartan trees in quartz sand and supplied all nutrients by solution, changing only the calcium content. Trees that received a full dose of calcium bore fruit that had almost no breakdown problems during storage; trees that received only an eighth of the full calcium rose had a 50 per cent breakdown rate.

Then the scientists found the same calcium-breakdown link applied to the Golden Delicious variety.

Recent work in Japan has also demonstrated a similar link for the Jonathan variety, and scientists there have been able to reduce the breakdown problem by spraying the trees with calcium.

This year three growers in the Okanagan applied concentrate sprays of calcium nitrate to 250 Spartan trees. The spraying was done at two-week intervals, between mid-June and mid-September.

The apples went into normal storage and controlled atmosphere storage this fall and will be checked later for breakdown problems.

In addition, scientists will check the orchards for side effects of the spraying treatment on insect populations.

"This is an extensive trial to compare our results under experimental conditions with results in the fields of commercial growers," says J. L. Mason.

"We want to find out if the sprays applied with commercial concentrate sprayers will reduce or preferably eliminate the breakdown problem. At the same time, we want to see if the sprays increase the calcium content of fruit."

Council passed a motion that the P. R. Spackman gravel account be paid Jan. 1 instead of April 30 providing a discount of $681 is subtracted from the account.

In other council business H. C. MacNeill was appointed returning officer for the municipal election to be held Dec. 12. Mrs. Douglas MacLaughlin will be the deputy returning officer.

Mr. and Mrs. Eden Raikes and daughters are spending some time in California and later on will visit Las Vegas.

R.R. McHarg is a patient in the Kelowna General Hospital.

A bon voyage and Christmas dinner party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kelvin Keast of Pandosy Street in honor of Mrs. Keast's parents and brother, Mr. and Mrs. Stan Locking and Gene. The Lockings leave on Thursday for Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, where Mr. Locking will teach in a technical teachers training college for the next two, possibly three years.

Mrs. Locking was presented with a corsage by her daughter and Mr. Locking and Gene were presented with boutonnieres. Grace was given by Judy Koble, the fiancée of their eldest son, Larry Locking, who also proposed a toast to the honored guests. Kelvin Keast also proposed a toast to the couple, to which Mr. Locking replied.

A delicious dinner was served after which bon voyage wires were read from relatives in Eastern Canada, British Columbia and the United States.

The evening was spent exchanging Christmas gifts, picture taking and long distance farewells via the telephone. The Keast home was appropriately decorated for the occasion.

No Holds Barred Amendment Scorned By Coalition Of Women's Groups

WASHINGTON (AP) — With a coalition of women's groups scolding the latest advances of a fickle U.S. Senate, the struggle for greater constitutional guarantees against sex discrimination apparently has fizzled in its most promising year.

Leaders of women's rights organizations said Thursday they would rather leave things the way they are than settle for Senator Birch Bayh's substitute for the no-holds-barred amendment approved by the House of Representatives weeks ago.

The original version of the amendment reads simply that "equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or any state on account of sex."

Bayh's proposal calls instead for extending the 14th Amendment's equal-protection clause to sex-discrimination cases, but also would "recognize the need for a flexible standard in cases where different treatment under the law may be justified."

Women's groups object the added language would prove an excuse to continue discriminatory practices, particularly in employment. The original version was introduced 47 years ago.

THE NORTH

Barren, Cold, Worthless Land Description Of B.C. In 1871

Referring to an 1871 newspaper article in which British Columbia was described as a barren, cold mountainous country, not worth keeping, Pat Carney, well known Canadian journalist, likened the thinking of the era prior to the building of the trans-Canada railway to some of the modern day thoughts on Canada's North.

Miss Carney, who is also a financial analyst, was guest speaker at the 10th anniversary dinner Monday night of the University Women's Club of Kelowna. Many men were present in the audience of 150 persons who attended the function held in the Rutland Centennial hall.

Having spent considerable time in the north, Miss Carney has acquired considerable knowledge of the climate of the north and of its peoples.

Mentioning some of the myths that exist regarding the Territories, such as, "you can go up, get rich quick and leave," she cited two examples of pilots she knew. One did make it rich, but the other, through the hazardous climate conditions, lost his budding air line fleet, through a series of misfortunes with ice conditions.

Pointing up the problems of a "colony" run from Ottawa, she outlined some of the difficulties in developing self-government for a sparsely populated country with a predominantly illiterate native peoples.

SITUATION DESPAIR

However as more people reach high school matriculation, some areas are setting up advisory committees or settlement councils to advise the "government man". This is the first step towards a civic government and eventually the formation of a province with a municipal government of some description.

But you can't have a province without local autonomy, without local school boards, municipal councils and such, she added. Building houses for the native people, without involvement in their own affairs, only leads to apathy and more drinking and "situation despair," she said.

In some of the newly elected settlement councils tend to elect whitemen, she said, but it is becoming clear to the native people that when you discuss oil and gas pipeline, the white man's concerns are different than his. Indians think in terms of what will happen to traplines adjacent to the pipeline. She predicted that in the next election of settlement councils, Vancouver normal, received military honors in the first world war and after he was sent to China, where he met Pat's mother. Pat was born in Shanghai. Upon their return to Canada she lived on a ranch in the Kootenays, where she learned self reliance and a love of the land.

more natives will be elected to serve on the advisory boards.

She also outlined some of the problems in housing developments: of the difficulties in putting in sewerage systems in permafrost.

On the bright side she mentioned the success of one settlement council, who took on their own Eskimo housing project. They came south to study prefabricated housing and returned to build 27 buildings in the settlement which became the first hamlet in that area.

The big advantage of this project, she exclaimed wryly, was that previously when southern builders completed a housing project, they returned south and were not around when the roof leaked.

Given a choice of choosing between the old ways of living and the new, most adults would choose the old ways, if it was possible, but at the same time, say they want the new and better ways for their children.

In the talks underway between the Eskimo and the oil men, many of the natives are fearful they don't want to see the old ways upset. At the same time, no man really does want to walk 80 miles for groceries.

The nature of the changes must be studied carefully, she urges, adding that perhaps the native people will choose to migrate south. Maybe they don't like the cold either.

COMPROMISE

A compromise may have to be considered for petroleum workers in the North so that Indians and Eskimo employees will be able to maintain trapping lines and hunt their meat supplies, yet hold down jobs in the industry.

Miss Carney, introduced by past president, Mrs. W. J. O'Donnell, comes from one of the great pioneer families of the Okanagan. Her grandfather, John Joseph Carney came from Ontario arriving in Sicamous in 1881. His descendants still live in the Valley and present Monday night at the dinner, were Miss Carney's aunt, Mrs. Catherine Neave, a cousin, Leonard Neave and another cousin and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Tierney O'Keefe of Vernon.

Her grandfather worked at the famous O'Keefe ranch and later was manager and owner of the Simpson ranch at Allison. It was here that Pat's father, James J. Carney was born. He attended the Allison school and Vancouver normal, received military honors in the first world war and after he was sent to China, where he met Pat's mother. Pat was born in Shanghai. Upon their return to Canada she lived on a ranch in the Kootenays, where she learned self reliance and a love of the land.

Other members of the committee who planned and arranged the successful affair were, Mrs. W. J. O'Donnell, Mrs. C. B. Holmes, Mrs. A. P. Taylor, Mrs. R. M. Wilson and Mrs. Harold Lamoureux.

Pretty Evening Wedding In First United Church

Baskets of large white mums, pink carnations and white shasta mums formed the setting for the double-ring ceremony in First United Church, Kelowna, when Virginia May Pavle of Kelowna, became the bride of Jerry John Blaskovits, also of Kelowna.

Rev. Robert Stobie conducted the 7 p.m. ceremony on Nov. 14 with soloist Terrance O'Malley, accompanied by Rex Marshall, singing Bless This House. Both men are from Kelowna.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. W. G. Yendall of Kelowna and J. W. Pavle of Lumby and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Blaskovits of Kelowna.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was a picture in an exquisite creation of georgette crepe designed especially for her. The delicate fabric was handworked in honey comb smocking fashioning the bodice and upper sleeves. The sleeves billowed in fullness to be caught at the wrists in a ruffle to match the neckline. The skirt fell from the bodice in soft gathers to "floor" length.

The specially designed head-dress of matching material formed a band with droplet flowers on either side and hand rolled roses across the top. A georgette crepe veil floated to the floor, and she carried a bouquet of baby pink roses cascading to miniature roses, intermingled with trailing ivy.

IDENTICAL GOWNS

The bride's sister, Mrs. James Flintoft of Rutland served as matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Mrs. Peter Turgoose, Burnaby; Catherine Sager and Terry Blaskovits, of Kelowna and South Kelowna.

The bridal attendants and flower girl, Marilyn Blaskovits of Rutland, wore identical gowns of polyester lilac crepe. The floor-length gowns featured short puffed sleeves and crystal beads and drop pearls embellished the empire waistlines. They carried crescent bouquets of white shasta mums and salal leaves.

MR. AND MRS. JERRY BLASKOVITS
(Paul Ponich Studios)

Tiny hand made roses of lilac chiffon were tucked into their upswept curls.

Serving as best man was Allan Koehle of Kelowna and ushers were James Flintoft of Rutland and David Taylor of Kelowna.

FAMILY RECIPE

For her daughter's wedding the bride's mother chose a champagne colored crystalline crepe dress with cream tatted lace edging on the sleeves and bodice. A single gardenia corsage completed her ensemble.

The groom's mother chose an ensemble of navy and white turtleneck, enhanced with a corsage of gardenias.

Two large tapers in silver holders flanked the wedding cake which centred the bride's table for the reception at Capri. The cake was made by the bride's mother from a family recipe, handed down for three generations.

The toast to the bride was proposed by W. G. Yendall and the toast to the bridesmaids was made by the best man.

For her honeymoon trip to Vancouver and points in the United States, the bride donned a smocked dress of pink organza topped with a white wool will coat. A deeper pink hat, purse and shoes accented the outfit which was adorned by a corsage of pale pink carnations.

The young couple will make their home at Latta Road, RR 2, Kelowna.

Out-of-town guests included: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bernert of Burnaby; Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Nevrumont, Coquitlam; Mrs. A. Lavier of Edmonton; Mr. and Mrs. Ross Newman, Enderby; Gail Blaskovits, Burnaby; Paul Bazeley, Vancouver; Lloyd Yendall, Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. Peter Turgoose, Burnaby; Mrs. Edward Taylor, Corning, Sask.; Mr. and Mrs. James Brew, Abbotsford.

ANN LANDERS

If The Shoe Fits

Go Back For More

Dear Ann Landers: You've handled just about every problem under the sun but never one like mine. I'm a guy who has a very small foot. I wear a size 5C shoe. Men's shoe stores do not carry my size. For the past several years I've been going to women's shoe stores and getting a perfect fit. As you know, Ann, women's styles have become very masculine which is a break for me. Boots are the thing now.

My girl has been going with me when I buy shoes and naturally the salesperson thinks she is the customer. When they find out I'm the customer they darn near faint. This bothers my girl a lot. Last week she refused to go shoe shopping with me. I hate to go into a women's shoe store alone. Do you have any suggestions?—Boots

Dear Boots: Have you considered the boys' shoe department? If not, why not? Give it a try and if you can't find what you want, go back to the women's department—alone if necessary.

Dear Ann Landers: I was interested in the overheard response you received from "Boiling Over." She wrote that you had insulated every arthritic in the country by saying arthritis can be caused by Gonorrhea. You did right to let people know this. Many don't know until it's too late.

You are probably aware that highly irascible people who cannot find a suitable outlet for their suppressed rage sometimes develop arthritis. It is possible that you helped that woman immensely by supplying her with an external object for her anger. Even though she misunderstood, she may be less apt to have an attack of arthritis after having written that vitriolic letter—and it didn't hurt you in the least. Keep up the good work.—Karl Menninger, M.D.

Dear Dr. Karl: Your good letter serves a double purpose. First, it points out that arthritis, like ulcers, migraine headaches and many other organic illnesses, can result from unresolved emotional problems. Second, an angry letter to Ann Landers allows a writer to unload his hostility and, as you said, it doesn't hurt me a bit. Thank you for the double assist.

Dear Ann Landers: So you don't want drop-in company? Well, that's YOUR business. But please don't answer for me or for millions of other down-to-earth folks who love it when friends and neighbors come by for a surprise "Howdy!"

Every now and then you publish a letter from some sourpuss who hates visitors. You take her aside and refer to a sign of a famous person hung on his front door: "If you are uninvited you are not expected and not wanted. Go home."

I was raised by big-hearted, open-handed parents who taught us to be hospitable night or day, no matter who drops in. Some people just need to talk. I feel honored when a guest shows up. If it's mealtime we share whatever is on our table. I've never had a caller I wasn't glad to see. Too bad you can't say the same.—Just Plain Folks

Dear Folks: I CAN say the same. I've never had a caller I wasn't glad to see either—at least not in the last 10 years. My friends have the message. I was raised by open-handed parents, too, but I was taught to respect other people's privacy. You are right when you say "some people just need to talk." I devote approximately 10 to 12 hours a day to those people, and in order to help them I must schedule my time and guard it carefully.

Seven First-Year Men Named To 1970 EFC All-Star Team

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Seven first-year men—five from Montreal Alouettes and two from Ottawa Rough Riders—won positions on the 1970 Eastern Football Conference all-star team announced Tuesday.

The 24 players—12 each on the offensive and defensive squads—were picked by vote of the Football Reporters of Canada and announced by president Laurie Artiss of Regina.

The seven, all in their first year in the Canadian game, are quarterback Gary Wood and defensive back Al Marcelin of Ottawa, running back Moses Denson, offensive tackle Ed George, defensive ends Steve Smear and Steve Booras and outside linebacker Mike Widger, all of Montreal.

In all, the Alouettes put eight men on the two squads. Toronto Argos and Hamilton Tiger-Cats had six each and Ottawa contributed four.

The teams:

Offensive — Quarterback: Gary Wood, Ottawa; running backs: Bill Symons, Toronto; Dave Fleming, Hamilton; Moses Denson, Montreal; flanker: Jim Thorpe, Toronto; centre: Gene Ceppelletti, Montreal; guards: Charlie Bray, Toronto; Bill Danyehuk, Hamilton; tackles: Ellison Kelly, Hamilton; Ed George, Montreal; tight end: Mel Profit, Toronto; split end: Tommy Joe Coffey, Hamilton.

Defence — Ends: Steve Smear and Steve Booras, both Montreal; tackles: Angelo Mosca, Hamilton; Marshall Shirik, Ottawa; middle linebacker: Charlie Collins, Montreal; outside linebackers: Jerry Campbell, Ottawa; Mike Widger, Montreal; defensive backs: Garney Henley, Hamilton; Marv Luster and Jim Tomlin, Toronto; Al Phaneuf, Montreal; Al Marcelin, Ottawa.

WOOD EASY WINNER

The quarterback category—in which retired Russ Jackson of Ottawa had taken every vote for four years in a row—went to Wood by a wide margin. He had 20 votes to eight for runner-up Wally Gabler of Hamilton, two for Tom Wilkinson of Toronto and one each for Joe Zuger of Hamilton and Sonny Wade of Montreal.

It was a completely new backfield from last year. Symons won unanimous selection with Fleming and Denson not far behind.

Of last year's running backs, Wayne Washington was ineligible, Dave Rainey of Toronto got a scant five votes and Dennis Duncan of Montreal pulled in only three.

Bray at guard, Kelly at tackle, Profit at tight end and Coffey at split end all were holdovers from last year's eastern all-stars.

It was a fourth consecutive selection for Coffey, a fifth all-

Long Shot Wins Game

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — J. P. Bordeleau scored on a 25-foot shot with 1:17 left to break a 5-5 deadlock and give Dallas Black Hawks a 6-5 victory over Tulsa Oilers in a Central Hockey League game Tuesday night.

Down 5-3 going into the final period, the Oilers pulled even on goals by Rene Robert and Bob Liddington 2½ minutes apart early in the session.

The Black Hawks, who moved into undisputed possession of fourth place in league standings with the victory, pounded Tulsa goalie Ray Reason with 33 shots.

Dallas scored three goals in the second period within a span of two minutes and 34 seconds. The marksmen were Don Gordon, Terry Caffrey and Bordeleau. Other Dallas goals were scored by Moe L'Abbe and J. P. LeBlanc in the first period.

Tulsa scores were posted by Robert, who had a pair, Brian Spencer, Doug Brindley and Liddington.

BCDs SHOOT

A small attendance at the weekly shoot of the British Columbia Dragons 22 club was noted on Tuesday when some practice was shot on the CIL targets which do not qualify for recording. Only five DCRA targets were turned in, although more were shot, but only three made the records. Frank Preissl 98-5x; Herb Preissl 97-3x; Ed Rashke 95.

The next practice will take place at the club range Nov. 24 at 7 p.m.

Dynamiters Beat Royals

KIMBERLEY, B.C. (CP) — Captain Dick Vincent scored two goals to lead Kimberley Dynamiters to a 4-2 victory over Cranbrook Royals in a Western International Hockey League game before 1,100 fans Tuesday night.

The two goals for Vincent bring his total to 15, tops in the league. Wayne Wiener and Adrian Blais also scored for Kimberley.

Leo Reissler and Lloyd Harvey replied for Cranbrook. Dynamiters were ahead 1-0 after the first period and 3-0 after the second.

Cranbrook goalie Dan Sullivan recorded 27 saves and Barrie MacKay of Kimberley turned aside 22 shots.

The victory leaves Kimberley one point behind first-placed Nelson Maple Leafs.

HALIFAX (CP) — Springfield Kings outplayed Montreal Voyageurs throughout the game Tuesday night to score a 3-1 American Hockey League victory before a crowd of 2,500.

Five Was The Big One For Winning NHL Teams

By IAN MACLAINE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Five was the big winner in National Hockey League games Tuesday night, but Montreal Canadiens had other reasons for rejoicing.

The Canadiens drubbed California's Golden Seals 5-1 to move into first place in the NHL's East Division with 21 points, one ahead of Boston Bruins and New York Rangers, both of whom were idle Tuesday.

The game also marked the return to the Montreal lineup of left winger John Ferguson, who discarded retirement plans, and sharp-shooting Yvan Cournoyer, sidelined for three weeks with a cracked foot bone.

But the real sparkplug in the Montreal attack was veteran Henri Richard. Skating like a rookie, the 34-year-old centre scored twice and assisted on two others. His effort was supplemented by Pete Mahovich's two goals.

Richard had managed only one goal in Montreal's previous 18 games while Mahovich, enjoying his finest start in the NHL, connected for goals No. 7 and 8.

BLUES LOSE

In other games, Minnesota North Stars dumped St. Louis Blues 5-3 in St. Louis and Detroit Red Wings defeated Vancouver Canucks 5-2.

Ferguson, who retired Oct. 7 because of pressures of business outside hockey, decided to return last Friday.

Cournoyer had scored 10 goals in nine games before his injury. He played a regular shift but Ferguson, the club's policeman, was used sparingly and did not get involved in any of the three goals that marked the latter stages of the game.

Centres Jude Drouin and Tom Williams scored in the second period to snap a 2-2 tie and ignite the Minnesota victory, snapping St. Louis' home-ice winning streak at seven games. Danny O'Shea got the insurance goal with three minutes left in the game with a 40-footer that eluded Blues' goaltender Glenn Hall.

Two unanswered goals in the second period sent Detroit winging to victory at Vancouver. The goals, by Tom Webster and Billy Dea, gave the Red Wings a 4-1 lead.

The win moved Detroit to within two points of the Canucks, fourth in the East Division with 15 points.

Tonight the Bruins are at Minnesota, New York visits Los Angeles Kings and Toronto Maple Leafs and Buffalo Sabres battle for sixth spot in the East Division at Toronto.

All-Star X-Rayed

MONTREAL (CP) — All-star halfback Moses Denson of the Montreal Alouettes underwent X-rays for a possible back injury Tuesday while the rest of his team-mates prepared for Saturday's final encounter with the Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the Eastern Football Conference.

Denson, elected to the EFC's all-star team Tuesday by the Football Reporters of Canada, was told by team physician Dr. Ted Percy his injury is not serious.

Denson describes the injury as a dull pain right in the middle of his spine.

"It's hard to get the proper sleep when you can't seem to get comfortable," he said.

There was no fear in the Alouettes' camp that Denson would be sidelined Saturday.

Offensive lineman Pierre Desjardins took things easy also, because of a groin injury suffered in the EFC semi-final in Toronto 10 days ago. He was recovering last week but re-activated the problem last Sunday in the Als 32-22 win over Hamilton.

Tigers, Lancers Meet In Finals Of Div. 7 Soccer

It took overtime for Lancers to down Kickers 2-1 in Division 7 of the Kelowna and District Soccer League.

Colin Mullaney and Alan Anderson were the goal scorers for the Lancers and Mike Wolfe scored the Kickers' goal.

In the other game Tigers held off Cougars and came up with a 3-1 victory.

Greg Cousin scored the first Tiger goal on a long hard shot that just got under the cross bar. Other Tiger goals were scored by Robert Johnson and James Gorges. Reese Brunn scored the Cougar goal.

The finals take place Saturday between Tigers and Lancers. This is the second year in a row that these two teams meet in the finals. Game time is 10 a.m. at City Park.

'Miss' Grey Cup Selected

TORONTO (CP) — Singing star Anne Murray of Springhill, N.S., has been named grand marshal of the Nov. 28 Grey Cup parade here, organizers said today.

Officials said Miss Murray will preside over the longest and most elaborate Grey Cup parade ever, featuring 20 floats and 18 bands.

Millions of Canadians are expected to watch the parade on the two national television networks while thousands more will see it in person.

Slug King Of Major Leagues Notches Up Another Honor

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Bench of Cincinnati Reds, the 22-year-old slugging king of the major leagues, added another crown today when he became the youngest player ever to win a Most Valuable Player award.

Bench, who led the majors in home runs with 45 and runs batted in with 148 while leading the Reds to the National League pennant, outdistanced a field that included two other strong Cincinnati candidates in the balloting by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

The young catcher received 22 of the 24 first-place votes and a total of 326 points. Billy Williams of Chicago Cubs was second with the other two first-place votes and 218 points.

Bench's slugging team-mate, third baseman Tony Perez, finished third in the balloting with 149 points while another member of the Reds, outfielder Pete Rose, also cracked the top 10, finishing seventh with 54 points.

MUSIAL'S BIRTHDAY falls on Nov. 21 and Bench's on Dec. 7. Bench is the first catcher to win the award in the National League since Roy Campanella did it with the 1955 Brooklyn Dodgers.

Bench appeared on every ballot in winning the award, being named second on the other two casts.

After Perez in the voting came Bob Gibson, the fireballing St. Louis Cardinals right-hander who previously was named the Cy Young Award winner as the league's outstanding pitcher. He received 110 votes.

Strict Secrecy Enfolds Hearing On NFL Actions

CLEVELAND (AP) — A special federal grand jury was expected to hear from out-of-town witnesses today in the third day of its investigation into affairs of the National Football League.

Except for Tom Fears, who recently was fired as coach of New Orleans Saints, the jury has spent the first two days hearing testimony from representatives of the Cleveland Browns' front office and coaching staff.

The investigation is being conducted under strict secrecy by the Cleveland office of the U.S. justice department's anti-trust division, but it was reported that today's witnesses would include representatives of St. Louis Cardinals and Bernie Parrish, a former member of the Browns' defensive backfield.

Parrish, now an official of the Teamsters Union in St. Louis, and Walter Beach, another former Browns defensive back, claimed they were black-balled by other NFL teams after being released on waivers by the Browns. Beach, a student at Yale Law School, also is expected to appear before the grand jury.

Witnesses have indicated in answer to reporters' questions that the jury has concentrated on player-owner relations. It was learned Tuesday that the jury is looking for possible violations of the Sherman Anti-trust Act. Such violations could bring criminal indictments.

The Sherman Act not only provides penalties for restraint of trade, but also restraint of services—in the case of sports, the services of players.

Two members of the Browns' coaching staff, offensive coach Nick Skorich and defensive backfield coach Howard Brinker, said they were asked by the jury Tuesday about waiver and trade procedures in professional football and players' complaints about blackballing. They said names were mentioned in the questioning but that they were not at liberty to disclose the names.

Skorich and Brinker spent a total of an hour and 15 minutes between them before the jury.

Browns general manager Harold Sauerbrei, the only other witness Tuesday, spent three hours and 15 minutes in the jury room in morning and afternoon sessions.

He told reporters "there was a general discussion of the over-all operations of professional football, but it would be inappropriate if I would comment further."

Blanton Collier, head coach of the Browns, and Fears were the only witnesses before the 23-member jury Monday. They said they answered all questions put to them, but declined further comment.

Carl Steinhouse, district director of the anti-trust division here, said Tuesday the investigation is expected to take at least a month.

Snooker Champ Dies At 64

TORONTO (CP) — George Chenier, 64, North American snooker champion, died of a stroke Monday.

Chenier won the title in 1947 and held it against all comers, turning back two challengers in the last three years despite an earlier stroke suffered in 1965. His last victim was Eddy Agha of Montreal, whom he defeated last spring, 36 matches to 27.

Born in Hull, Que., the soft-spoken 125-pound bachelor began playing snooker while attending school but said he really "learned" the game in Detroit a few years later.

One of the world's top snooker players, Chenier finished second to Fred Davis of England in the 1950 world championship and lost a best-of-61 challenge series to Davis by only three games in 1958.

In 1963 he racked up the first perfect 150 break in a pocket billiards against world champion Irving Crane, a feat achieved by only one other player. His 144 in the world snooker championship is the longest ever recorded in the competition.

Chenier was recognized as North American champion when he completed a challenge tour of the United States in 1947 by defeating Jimmy Moore in a $1,500 match at Amarillo, Tex.

Dixie Flyers End Walkout

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Striking members of Nashville Dixie Flyers of the Eastern Hockey League voted early today to end a walkout and return to the ice in Greensboro, N.C. tonight.

The game had been postponed by the Greensboro club after a contest scheduled in Charlotte, N.C. Tuesday night was cancelled because the players failed to show up.

The players' action brought an uneasy truce in a dispute which began Monday when players received pay cheques reflecting $70 fines imposed on all members of the team for poor performances in recent games.

Mark Parrish, Flyers general manager, had said earlier that any players who failed to show for the game in Charlotte would be suspended and "never play hockey again."

But a team spokesman said this morning all but two players will depart today for tonight's game in Greensboro.

WILL NEGOTIATE

Wally Sprange, centre who has acted as player representative in the dispute, and veteran defenceman Norman Ryder will be left behind to continue negotiations with club owners, the spokesman said.

In addition to the fines, the players said they were upset by what they called poor medical treatment, inferior equipment and the condition of the team's travel bus.

League president Tom Lockhart, who had been asked to help settle the dispute, suspended all of the players after the Charlotte game was cancelled.

Parrish said Tuesday night that the team would go out of business and season ticketholders' money would be refunded if the players continued the strike.

Light-Heavy King Foster Tries To Climb Out Of Class

DETROIT (AP) — Joe Frazier, fighting for universal acceptance, and Bob Foster, who has turned his back on the class he rules, meet tonight for the heavyweight championship on the world.

The scheduled 15-round fight is set for 10:30 p.m. EST, at Cobo Arena and will follow, as part of a closed-circuit television doubleheader, a scheduled 10-rounder between heavyweights George Foreman and Boone Kirkman in New York's Madison Square Garden.

Although Frazier is the heavyweight champion and unbeaten in 25 pro bouts, he fights in the shadow of Muhammad Ali, also known as Cassius Clay.

So, if Frazier beats Foster—he is the 5-to-1 favorite—it will be another step toward stamping out the shadow of Ali because it will bring closer to realization a Frazier-Ali fight.

As for Foster, he has said no matter what happens in the Frazier fight he will not defend his light heavyweight championship again.

CAN'T MAKE LIMIT

Foster, who was expected to weigh from 185 to 190 pounds for tonight's fight, says he cannot make the light heavyweight limit of 175 any more.

A crowd of about 15,000 which would mean a gate of $300,000 is expected to watch Foster try to become the first light heavyweight champion to win the heavyweight title. Seven previous light-heavyweights tried unsuccessfully a total of nine times.

The closed-circuit telecast will be seen in 110 locations, with a seating capacity of 500,000, in 31 cities in the United States and Canada. The fights also will be beamed to 27 countries in Europe, Africa, South America, Central America, Asia and the South Pacific.

Frazier has been guaranteed $150,000 against 40 per cent of all receipts. Foster will get 22½ per cent.

No matter what Frazier

Coach Fires Four Truants

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma State University basketball coach Sam Aubrey announced Tuesday the dismissal of four black players from the varsity squad for "failure to report to practice."

Dropped from the team were seniors Bob Buck, John Robinson and Jerry Redo and sophomore Kenneth Jackson.

Although Aubrey said he knew nothing beyond the fact that each player missed two practices, the dismissals apparently were connected with racial unrest on the OSU campus in the last week.

Many black students boycotted classes Monday and Tuesday, and four leaders met Tuesday with Gov. Dewey Bartlett. They said white students were being allowed to have firearms on campus, and that black students feared for their lives.

Toronto's Social Policy Given A Savage Beating

TORONTO (CP) — The social planning council of Metropolitan Toronto today issued a wide-ranging report which included some strong criticism of some aspects of social policy. Some of the report's findings — immigrants who settle in Canada Plans To Fight Change In Auto-Trade Pact With U.S.

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Nixon has served notice his administration will renew its demand that the five-year U.S.-Canadian auto trade agreement be revised to eliminate provisions favoring Canada.

But officials in Ottawa have said Canada will continue to resist the American demands. In his annual report to Congress on the agreement, Nixon says the continuation of the portions of the 1965 pact favoring Canada "would be contrary to the premise on which the United States entered the agreement."

At issue between the two countries is Annex A of the agreement, under which the Canadian auto industry received special transitional arrangements which Nixon noted would continue "until its smaller industry could adjust operations to the much larger North American market."

Under this provision, Canada gives duty-free treatment to motor vehicles and original equipment only when imported by qualified manufacturers. These manufacturers are required to maintain at least the same ratio of production of vehicles in Canada to sales in Canada as prevailed during the 1964 model year.

In his report, released last week while the president was taking a post-election vacation in Florida, Nixon said: "The continued existence of the transitional measures . . . represents an unnecessary burden on the automotive industry and is an obstacle to full realization of the agreement's objectives."

MUSICALLY SPEAKING

With Ear Plugs Music's Liked

By BETHEL STEELE

Sunday afternoon in the Anglican Parish Hall, the Kelowna and District Arts Council held open house to what must have been well over a 1000 people. On display were arts and crafts including pottery, fine china, Indian crafts, some school art work and a lot more I did not get around to.

I apologize for the lapse but I was fascinated with the very large crowd coming and going all the time I was there and with the sound of much music making in the background . . . even to the bagpipes for a Scots dancer. The crowd was so dense at times it was impossible to see or hear what was going on on stage except when the rock group were at work. They call themselves the Ball and Chain. So much sound equipment for so few . . . four of them. I left when they started to play, not because I don't like rock groups, but because I did not have my ear plugs with me and their decibels were beyond all endurance. As one gentleman stated it was one way to get people home for dinner.

If for no other reason than to try to save our children's hearing from certain damage unless something is done very soon about the problem I would like to see city hall pass an ordinance controlling the number of sales decibels for these groups when performing in our city. Please kids, get advice from someone you respect before it is too late. You will all be deaf or nearly deaf before you reach middle age.

Mrs. Anne Briggs, convenor of the Sunday open house is to be congratulated on a fine organizational job. I neglected to get a list of participants so I have no idea how many organizations or individuals took part, but I saw and heard enough to make it very clear Kelowna needs a community centre very much both for the participant and for the man in the street.

People need some place to go, some place where they can do their own thing or just look or listen. And the centre should be open seven days a week, 24 hours a day. I hope we don't have too long to wait and after Sunday, watching whole families, father and mother with babies and small children just looking and visiting around, that fountain sounds rather foolish in the face of sheer need of people for communication. That fountain money would buy a room in the centre just for kids like the "Ball and Chain" and sound proof it too. I know, I know . . . we need beauty but the kids need beauty too and kids are more important than things.

This coming Sunday afternoon in the Community Theatre the Okanagan Symphony Orchestra will play a quite advanced standard of program. The Overture to the Mozart Abduction of the Seraglio and the Strauss Rosenkavalier Waltz are in themselves music only a capable group of players dare attempt since they demand a sense of style usually lacking in small community orchestras. To accompany Magdam Janisch in the Rossini songs will be no small accomplishment either. The Berceuse de Jocelyn is a nice piece of fluff and the Christmas Music by Cocavvas timely even though a little early.

The symphony is sounding good to my ears. It plays in tune and is acquiring a lovely patina of sound. There are some outstanding strings in the membership. The balance is exceptional since amateur wind players find it very hard to subjugate themselves to their fellows.

Captain Leonard Camplin is still the musical director and is gradually placing his stamp on the players. He is bringing players for oboe, trumpet, bassoon and percussion for the performance. In interview at the last rehearsal Captain Camplin stated . . . "I can honestly say the orchestra is showing good potential . . . perhaps more this year than in previous years. This is most certainly true in the strings which are ably led by Mrs. Kereluk. Although we are short three wind instrument principals the section is quite promising."

A trip to Penticton last week for the Royal Winnipeg Ballet was a disappointment. Whether the company was tired from the trip in from Victoria and a tight schedule previously, it did not show its usual verve and spontaneity one always thinks of in relation to Canada's premier ballet company. It could be the small Penticton stage had something to do with all the faults . . . I would like to think so anyway although Winthrop Corey is more lyrical than when I first saw him. His line and movement have gained great power. Christine Hennessy was not her usual self in her Rose Adagio from The Sleeping Beauty. Again space hampered the dancers and the variations had to be cut except for Hennessy's and the Code.

The company was at its best in the Strike Up the Band variations. The Double Bass sequence is still as funny as when I first saw it. This ballet is a lovely satire of musical instruments and orchestra. The type of thing the company does best. Anna Maria de Goriz and Dick Foose were execrably funny particularly Anna Maria with her deadpan face.

We hope the company will make Kelowna next time out. It needs our big stage. It was nice talking to Richard Rutherford again but we miss him on stage. He has retired from active dancing to take on an administrative post with the company.

Metro face discrimination in housing and jobs despite laws designed to protect them. Immigrants also lack community services designed to help them adjust.

—Federal and provincial programs aimed at getting summer jobs for students were so successful they "pushed some marginally-employable family heads on to the welfare rolls."

—Provincial welfare regulations penalize handicapped persons by allowing them to keep 324 of the money they can earn, then deducting 75 per cent of the remainder from the monthly welfare allowance. This discourages the handicapped from becoming self-supporting.

—Metro's decision to stop paying for drugs, dentures and eyeglasses for welfare recipients to trim welfare costs boosted by rising unemployment was a false economy. Denying recipients these items would only tend to prolong their stay on welfare and prevent many from obtaining employment.

—Major health-service planning studies in recent years have failed to recognize the medical needs of poor people, derelicts, youth, the emotionally ill, alcoholics and those who abuse narcotics.

—Agencies dealing with discontent and drug abuse among the young might produce better results if they were established in the suburbs—the home front—rather than in downtown areas. Such agencies also would be more effective if they delivered their services without a sermon on morality.

Standards of maximum-acceptable pollution levels are "generally acceptable" but may delay elimination of the cause of pollution because "there is no inducement to reduce pollution further than the arbitrary figure." Government should make pollution studies public so citizens' groups can use them to demand stricter enforcement of standards and better clean-up programs.

The council, representing a number of planning agencies supported by the United Appeal, says fast-changing urban life has resulted in a proliferation of welfare agencies in Metro, "often without the necessary resources and in an unco-ordinated way."

The report says poor people are demanding that social agencies assume the role of advocate and actively help them reform inadequacies in existing housing, job and welfare policies, rather than just providing services.

It also predicts greater government involvement in private agencies in the future.

The council's report, titled Trends Affecting the Development of Social Services in Metropolitan Toronto, is primarily meant for professionals in the planning and social welfare field. This year's report was expanded and made public in an effort to stimulate broader participation in social planning, said Dr. John Frie, the council's executive director.

Experts Ponder

NEW YORK (AP) — A group of 125 experts in all forms of energy has launched an 18-month study that could have a major impact on future United States government policies.

In addition to projecting the long-range requirements and sources of supply of the U.S., the National Petroleum Council's Committee on U.S. Energy Outlook also is to study government programs and policies affecting any phase of energy supply and demand.

The committee was organized formally Monday and Hollis Dole, assistant secretary of interior for mineral resources, said its findings "should get us back on track as to energy and determine how we should go forward in the future."

"This is the largest group of energy experts ever assembled for such a project," Dole said.

Greater U.S. demand for energy at a time of lagging explorations for new oil and gas reserves prompted the interior department to ask the Petroleum Council, its industry advisory body, to undertake the study to project demand-supply trends for the balance of the century.

BRITISH BRIEFS

SPURNED SCULPTURE SALISBURY, England (CP) — Wiltshire county council has refused permission for a modernistic sculpture called The Crucifixion, a work by Dame Barbara Hepworth, to be retained within the precincts of Salisbury Cathedral. The work, worth about $60,000 and a gift from Dame Barbara, had aroused criticism among some residents, who called it The Thing. "I am bitterly disappointed," said Dame Barbara.

TELEVERSE LONDON (CP) — The Dial-a-Poem service, which allows Britons to hear a recorded spate of poetry on their telephone, has made a recitation by poet laureate Cecil Day-Lewis available to callers in London. But in recording two poems for the service, Day-Lewis giggled and declared "Done it" after his time at the microphone. "We decided to leave that in, 'to intrigue people,'" an organizer of Dial-a-Poem said.

HEAVY LOSS More than 44,000 Canadians lost their lives in the Second World War.

Other Official Languages Urged For 'Certain Regions'

REGINA (CP) — An association representing French-speaking residents of Saskatchewan recommended Monday that official languages other than English or French should be allowed in certain regions in Canada.

Roger Lalonde, president of l'Association Culturelle Franco-Canadienne de la Saskatchewan, told the joint parliamentary committee on the constitution here:

"Each province should decide on its own official languages and should be able to declare a language other than English or French as official throughout its territory, or in a political or civic region under its jurisdiction."

Mr. Lalonde's brief was described by committee chairman Mark MacGuigan (L-Windsor Walkerville) as a "generous one in that it has recommended rights for other groups than his own."

The brief was presented at the first public hearing in the committee's tour of Saskatchewan.

They should use this right, he said. It could mean that Eskimo would be an official language in certain parts of the country. People could be served by government agencies in that language.

"If these Canadian cultural facts are not positively recognized in our constitution, we fear that they will continue to be subjected to unconscious yet ill-fated repression, as though they were outlawed," Mr. Lalonde said.

CONDITIONS ARE BETTER Replying to Gilles Marceau (L-Lapointe), Mr. Lalonde said that conditions have improved for the French-speaking community in Saskatchewan in recent years.

French-speaking students now could be taught in their own language in a number of schools.

Mr. Blakeney said the constitution should include a provision for equality of representation by population. The populations range from a low of 3,400 voters in the smallest Saskatchewan riding to 17,900 in the largest constituency.

Mr. Lalonde said that provinces currently have the right to declare whatever official languages they wish in their jurisdictions.

Soviet Returns Navy Protest

LONDON (Reuter) — The Soviet Union has made a counter-protest to Britain about a collision in the Mediterranean Nov. 9 between the British aircraft carrier Ark Royal and a Soviet destroyer, British officials said today.

Britain protested to the Soviet Union Friday. The Soviet counter-protest was delivered to the British embassy in Moscow the following day.

British officials said that the Soviet counter-protest note gave the Russian account of the incident which did not correspond to the British version.

In its protest note Britain claimed the captain of the Soviet destroyer disregarded international regulations for preventing collisions at sea. Two Russian sailors were drowned.

Officials declined to give details of the Soviet note which is under study at the foreign office.

Canadian Envoy Tells U.S.: We Will Defend Our Culture

NEW YORK (CP) — The Canadian ambassador to the U.S. said Tuesday night that Canadians are determined to preserve and enrich their distinctive social and cultural values.

Marcel Cadieux told a Canadian-American audience that Canadians will not accept the thesis that the forces of continental integration "are so overwhelming that we will have to accept relatively painless loss of independence."

"We have every intention of ensuring that what we do have, we will preserve and enrich," he said. The mood of Canada is such that any extra costs and difficulties required to ensure survival undoubtedly will be accepted.

Cadieux was delivering the 12th annual seminar on Canadian-American relations sponsored by the University of Windsor, Ont., and Columbia University here. The theme of this year's seminar is Canada: The Unknown Neighbor. It is being held for the first time in the United States.

The ambassador, who emphasized he was speaking personally and not as a representative of the government, said Canada is in a new phase of establishing the conditions which will best support a state that is neither homogeneous in language and culture nor unitary in political structures.

WHAT CULTURE SAVED
French-speaking Canadians are concerned that their institutions should correspond to contemporary values and that their culture "should not suffer asphyxiation amid so many English-speaking people on the continent."

"The insistence by French-speaking Canadians on new and better conditions for their corporate existence within the country had the effect of making most English-speaking Canadians assess again their own concepts of national life."

The social and political ferment in Canada, he said, "has alerted us particularly to the problem of foreign investment in other parts of the country companies from the United States can benefit from the use of English and a reasonable cultural homogeneity; in the predominantly French-speaking areas they will have to accommodate themselves to different conditions."

Two panel discussions were held Tuesday: one on defence policies and the other on economics.

Melville Watkins, professor of political economy at the University of Toronto, said American investment in Canada has turned the economy into a "branch plant."

TREATIES DON'T MATTER
In the defence panel, James Eayrs, professor of political economy at the University of Toronto, said he believes Canada can have a "free ride" in defence and that the United States would come to Canada's defence whether or not there were defence-sharing treaties.

He said the long-term policy of Canada should be to get out of these treaties. He asserted that the danger to Canada is not from the Russians coming over the North Pole but from south of the border.

Watkins clashed with two MPs in the audience when he said that American dominance of Canadian industry is one of the causes for the feeling of separation among the youth of Quebec.

Marcel Prud'homme, Liberal MP for Saint-Denis in Montreal, said the true concern of the Quebec young is language. He said Watkins gave the wrong impression of Canada.

Hyland Chappell, Liberal MP for Peel South in Ontario, said that Watkins is "peddling the NDP manifesto." Watkins is a vice-president of the New Democratic Party.

Eayrs said Canada no longer is indispensable to the defence of the North American continent—merely convenient.

Gen. Jean V. Allard, former chief of the Canadian general staff and chairman of the defence panel, said if the U.S. spends large amounts on the defence of Canada, the Americans "will find a way to pay themselves back."

FLAG BEARING BEATS JAIL

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — A pretty brunette teen-ager lifted a heavy staff and five-by-eight-foot U.S. flag to her shoulder and paraded three miles through chilly Cambridge streets.

Martha Meyers, a 17-year-old high school graduate, said her court-imposed march was "better than going to jail."

Few, if any, of the thousands who saw Tuesday's strange procession—a mini-coated girl with flapping banner, flanked by somber court officers and led by a police cruiser—could guess what prompted it.

Last year at Arlington high school, Martha, who admits she is "easily talked into things," burned a flag in an empty classroom. It wasn't a political protest, she said, just a bit of demonstrative reaction, echoing student opposition to the way a public address system was used in classrooms.

She wept last April when a district court judge told her she was a "good candidate for a college campus... if she ever gets there she'll be a leader with a Viet Cong flag."

"I'm sick of these protesters," said Judge Edward Viola then, and he sentenced her to six months in jail.

It was an appeal from that sentence that brought Martha to court Tuesday.

"Do I understand that you're remorseful for what you've done?" asked Judge Frank Thomasello.

"Yes, your honor," came the weak-voiced reply.

"Would you carry that flag through the streets of Cambridge to Harvard Square?"

"Yes."

The temperature was about 40 degrees outside the courthouse as the girl took the flag and its nine-foot staff in her bare hands. Flag and pole weighed 15 pounds.

Red Weapons Uncovered

SAIGON (AP) — Thousands of South Vietnamese troops pushed into northeast Cambodia Tuesday and uncovered one of the biggest North Vietnamese ammunition stockpiles of the war.

In South Vietnam, Viet Cong rockets and mortars hit two U.S. bases, killing three Americans and wounding 20. It was the heaviest American toll from rocket and mortar attacks in one day since July 22.

The new drive into Cambodia netted 254 tons of ammunition found in four holes six miles inside Cambodia's Ratanakiri province, opposite South Vietnam's central highlands.

U.S. B-52 bombers and fighter-bombers hammered North Vietnamese supply routes and depots north and south of the 4,500-man South Vietnamese force. But the U.S. command said no direct American support was being provided for the operation 185 miles north of Saigon.

It was the farthest north South Vietnamese troops have ventured into Cambodia since the first U.S. and South Vietnamese drives into the country last May and June. It was also the fourth major South Vietnamese drive into Cambodia in three weeks and raised to 16,000 the number of Saigon troops operating across the border.

"The main reason for the operation is to stop infiltration into South Vietnam and to destroy enemy caches we find," a spokesman said.

DIET DOWN

GODRANO, Sicily (AP) — The mayor said inflation had cut down the town mule diet to the point it no longer had the strength to plod through the streets all day hauling away Godrano's garbage. He asked the town council to increase the allowance for the mule's fodder.

Legal Stalling Abhorred In Deporting Immigrants

OTTAWA (CP) — A special report to the government recommends major amendments to immigration laws to reduce legal stalling against deportation by visitors who are denied immigrant status.

The report says the right to appeal to the immigration appeal board should be eliminated for visitors who fail to qualify for landed immigrant status. Leave to appeal would be granted only in special circumstances.

Meanwhile, the appeal board would be able to speed processing of a large 18-month backlog of cases involving deportation orders.

The report by Toronto lawyer Joseph Sedgwick was commissioned in July by Allan MacEachen, then immigration minister, following studies which indicated widespread abuse of a 1967 change in immigration regulations. These enable visitors to change their status to that of immigrants.

LEANING TOWER

CREDENHILL, England (CP) — A church spire in this community sets a bad example to local parishioners by constantly straying from the straight and row. The bending results from the sun's heat which causes glass fibre used in construction of the spire to expand on whichever side is exposed to the rays. Experts now are working on methods for keeping the whole structure cool despite the sun.

One obvious group affected by the recommendations would be American draft resisters and deserters seeking landed status after coming as visitors.

TRY ALL ANGLES

It was tabled Tuesday in the Commons by Otto Lang, succeeding Mr. MacEachen as immigration minister. It says the problem is from "applicants who do not qualify, many of whom intend to exhaust all their legal remedies before leaving."

The report says the average time lag between a deportation order and the hearing of an appeal to the immigration appeal board is about 18 months and it will be two years by the end of this year.

There was a backlog of about 3,200 cases as of August, with appeals at the rate of 400 monthly. The report says the board is geared to handle about 1,200 appeals annually.

Applications for landed immigrant status from visitors has increased from 28,000 in 1968 to 42,000 last year and about 77 per cent are acceptable and cause no problem.

Visitors seeking political asylum would have a right to appeal to the immigration appeal board on that ground alone. Or, preferably, a decision could be made by the immigration minister himself. Mr. Sedgwick endorses the recommendation of the royal commission on security cases be taken by a security review board rather than the appeal board.

British People Challenged To Fight For Prosperity

CITY OF FUTURE

Cumbernauld, Pride Of Scots

CUMBERNAULD (A.P.) — Cumbernauld is the pride of Scotland, a new town laid out in the green, gently rolling farmland northeast of Glasgow to provide big-city comforts in a rural setting, free of slums and traffic dangers.

It had been regarded as "a step into the future" until a British sociologist, Dr. Ferdynand Zweig, took a look and uttered the ultimate heresy. Cumbernauld, Dr. Zweig reported, is "a challenge to popular taste all round" and the town centre is "dirty and drab" and a drafty "jungle of concrete." The small gardens or patios provided for houses in the residential areas were "handkerchief gardens" to him, suitable for parking baby buggies or drying the wash. Cumbernauld is one of the 27 "garden cities" created in the United Kingdom to relieve the pressures of sprawling cities such as London, Edinburgh, Glasgow and Birmingham. There are no traffic lights, no traffic policemen in Cumbernauld. It is designed as "a truly 20th-century town accommodating the automobile, as a servant of man, but giving to the pedestrian intact and totally separate pathways."

This is downtown Cumbernauld. Here are the supermarkets, the drugstores, the town hall, the bowling alley, a hotel, bars, restaurants, banks, the local newspaper, government offices to serve a population of 30,000, heading for a limit of 70,000. You reach the upper shopping levels by elevator, escalator or stairways. If you have a baby buggy, you take concrete ramps sloping gently upward.

LONDON (CP) — Prime Minister Heath has decided to brush aside traditional forms of fighting inflation.

Calling for more individual enterprise and less government interference, Heath has challenged the British people to work out their own salvation in a community of expanding economic freedom.

While the Paris-based Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development is reported to have urged Western countries to induce more recession to fight inflation, Heath made clear he will not be deflected from his long-term goals.

"It was in freedom, not in reliance upon the state, that Britain achieved greatness through individual development and through industrial expansion," he told the lord mayor's banquet here.

The British public and national newspapers had been awaiting Heath's speech, anticipating that he might announce some measures to deter the rising price wave in Britain, driven to some extent by widespread and growing union demands for higher wages.

DON'T SOLVE PROBLEMS But Heath is known to feel that such traditional anti-inflation measures as government-controlled price and wage guides do not in the long run solve the basic problems. They merely tend to build up a big backlog of demands which spill into sudden sharp rises once the government controls are removed.

Normally, Heath's "let freedom reign" speech might have affected the status of the pound in the financial markets. But at the same time the government also found that while exports are continuing to increase, the actual rise is higher than officially estimated.

In fact the rate of annual rise in exports was about £150 million higher than officially recorded because some export-ers were not filing all the necessary papers.

This gave the financial community in Britain a lift but it also raised questions whether the former Wilson government might not have fared better at the June general election polls if the exports errors had been detected earlier.

At that time, Wilson had campaigned on a note of continuing national prosperity while Heath warned of economic doom. Monthly trade figures which came out just before the vote indicated a sharp foreign trade deficit which tended to throw cold water on Wilson's optimism.

Experts now say the monthly figures at the time should have shown only minor fluctuations.

OUTLOOK CHANGED Once Heath got into office his outlook changed. He began slimming the welfare state, trimmed taxation and government spending and prepared legislation to reform unruly unions. They in turn promised Heath a fight that might lead to a national strike, something similar to the 1926 holocaust.

As waves of local and regional strikes increased—with settlements involving higher wages—worries among the public rose as a national coal strike appeared imminent. But that coal strike crisis, with its major impact on industry, has receded as most workers agreed to return to work and ballot on a settlement less than the workers had demanded.

Some British newspapers argue that Heath's hands-off policy won't solve Britain's inflation crisis. Others seem puzzled how to interpret Heath's unorthodox moves.

The Times may reflect a substantial viewpoint by its conclusions that Heath was right not to rush into induced recession which was simply "a doctrine of despair."

"Yet the intellectual case for

Waterways Seen As Answer For Downtown Air Terminals

MONTREAL (CP) — The problem of establishing a downtown air service in North American cities could be solved by using waterways, a New York city official and aviation planner said.

C. G. Leedham, commissioner of the New York marine and aviation department, said a kind of seaplane service would have to be set up.

But it would eliminate the problem and costs of building short-take-off-and-landing facilities in city centres.

He told the annual conference of the Canadian Aeronautics and Space Congress that New York hopes to institute just such a service next spring. De Havilland-built aircraft would take off from the Hudson River for nearby cities such as Philadelphia and Boston.

Such a service would at first consist of planes carrying between 20 and 40 passengers and "would be aimed at the Wall Street business traveller who wants to go to these cities."

"The point is, they will operate from downtown and will eliminate the long waiting at La Guardia and Kennedy airports." The pontoon-equipped short-range planes would need only 500 feet of water in which to take off and land and would travel at about 300 miles an hour.

TERMINAL NEARBY Mr. Leedham said the idea is feasible because most major cities have suitable bodies of water near their downtown areas.

An important aspect was that, in the case of New York, businessmen would only have a short walk or ride to the air terminal.

He noted that this new approach to air service would create a few special problems.

"One of these would be getting the passenger on and off the seaplane without making a high-seas adventure of the whole thing."

Earlier, a spokesman for a leading airframe manufacturer said the future of short- and vertical-takeoff aircraft was not clear because little concrete encouragement had been shown by either the U.S. government or the airlines themselves.

W. P. Kennedy, a director for Lockheed Aircraft Corp., said his company is preparing a study on the matter at the request of American Airlines and the National Aerospace Administration.

JETS TO HAVE CARGO Mr. Kennedy said the thrust of aviation growth in the next 15 years appears to be in the transportation of cargo.

This was expected to increase nearly 10 times in the next 15 years from 11 million ton-miles in 1970 to more than 100 million ton-miles in 1985.

He attributed this to the development of jumbo jet aircraft such as the Boeing 747, Lockheed's L-500 and L-1011 and the McDonnell-Douglas DC-10.

By 1985, about 500 of these big planes will be hauling cargo. They have cargo capacities of 150 to 300 tons each compared with current air freighters carrying up to 50 tons.

Syrian Coup Welcomed

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Egypt, Libya and Sudan endorsed Tuesday Gen. Hafez Assad's coup in Syria and said they are ready to admit Syria as a fourth partner in their projected federation.

Libya's head of state, Col. Muammar Kadafi, made the declaration on behalf of the three Arab countries after a 24-hour visit to Damascus, Syria's capital.

His statement was broadcast by the state-controlled Damascus radio.

Egypt and Syria were linked in the United Arab Republic in 1958 but it collapsed in three years.

In an earlier broadcast, Assad said the planned federation has "rekindled the hopes of the Arab masses in an early Arab unity."

Assad, Syria's defence minister and the leader of the ruling Baath Socialist party's military wing, Friday ousted President Nouruddin Atassi and arrested Atassi and Maj.-Gen. Salah Jadid.

Bachelor Dad Gets Calls

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) -
Toby Patterson of Portland received a lot of phone calls after the adoption proceedings for his son, Philip, 9, were completed.

"Some calls were kooky," Patterson says. "Like: 'Hey, man, we love you, we think you're great.'"

"And others were just the opposite. Some people called to ask what religious training the boy would have. One man read a biblical quotation to me."

Oregon welfare authorities say Patterson, a 34-year-old bachelor, is the first unmarried man to adopt a child through the state public welfare department.

Patterson, a graduate of the University of Oregon, became interested in adoption after years of providing a home for foster sons. He received no state money for their support.

HAS TWO FOSTER SONS
The household now includes two foster sons—brothers 15 and 16—besides Patterson and Philip. Proceedings for the adoption were completed last month.

"We're a fast-moving, athletic family," Patterson says. "At home, I mostly program general duties for everybody, keep 'em busy. Kids aren't happy if they aren't busy."

Who does the cooking?
"Frankly," Patterson said,
"in 30 minutes I whip up a complete meal. We eat lots of broiled meat and salad ... and potatoes."

Patterson fits his life around his sons. He left a position with a car rental agency recently to become a property manager, which allows more time with the family.

He says he already has applied for a second child. He wants to adopt a child of a minority race because he wants his boys to know that everyone is different.

BITING REMINDER
CENTRAL CITY, Ky. (AP) -
Walter Ashley's friends at the American Legion gave him a new set of false teeth. In the excitement, Ashley slipped them into his hip pocket and forgot about them until he sat down.

WANT AD

Heath And Trudeau To Talk
On Long List Of Subjects

LONDON (CP) - Prime Minister Heath will confer with Prime Minister Trudeau at Ottawa next month, diplomatic sources disclosed here.

Heath will stop off at Ottawa at the time he also visits Washington to hold talks with President Nixon. A detailed announcement is to be made later today.

This will be Heath's first meeting with Trudeau since the British leader took office last June and a long list of issues is likely to be discussed, informants said.

Among these are likely to be Britain's proposed decision to sell arms to South Africa, the threat to the Commonwealth's future, the Singapore conference of prime ministers to take place in January, the problems affecting Western security including Soviet expansion and a number of trade and other problems affecting British-Canadian relations.

Undoubtedly another subject will be developments in connection with Canada's internal security, particularly in relation to the Front de Liberation du Quebec.

Heath is likely to echo the view of Sir Alec Douglas-Home, the British foreign secretary, that Britain and Canada must work together within the Commonwealth to encourage peaceful change inside and outside the Commonwealth.

Afro-Asian members have sharply criticized Heath on his announced intention to sell naval and other arms to South Africa. Threats of counter-action have raised questions whether the multiracial Commonwealth may be ruptured by the arms issue.

A further aggravation felt among non-white members is the British decision to reopen talks with the Ian Smith regime in Rhodesia, without maintaining the pledge of no independence without majority rule.

Swiss Want To Buy
Jets From Britain

BERN (Reuter) - The defence ministry has asked the
Swiss government to buy 30
British-made Hawker Hunter jet combat aircraft to tide the air force over until its new generation of fighter-bombers are ordered next year, a defence ministry spokesman said Wednesday. Cost of the aircraft was not given.

British Marines
To Quit Singapore

LONDON (Reuter) - Britain will start the withdrawal of its Royal Marine Commando Brigade from Singapore early next year. The defence ministry said Wednesday the withdrawal of the whole brigade of about 2,200 men is planned to end in early 1972.
